The Year of National Park Attractions in Alabama

With so much history—natural, geographical, social, political, cultural—embedded in the foundational character of Alabama, the number of federally designated sites recognizing the state's connections to civil rights, indigenous people, American music and landscapes is not surprising. In 2022, explore 11 of them administered by the National Park Service, from Natchez Trace Parkway in the north to the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site in the south.

ENJOY A FUN-FILLED VACATION TO ALABAMA!

Relish the ultimate relaxing getaway on Alabama's Gulf Coast, home to some of the most beautiful beaches in the world. The brilliant white sand provides a gorgeous backdrop for eating sumptuous fresh-catch seafood while contemplating the beauty of a sunset.

Breathe fresh air, appreciate awe-inspiring nature and enjoy some exercise while exploring vast forests, pristine rivers and lakes, and towering waterfalls: paddle whitewater rapids, climb challenging rock faces, hunt, fish, or hike or bike through memorable mountain or maritime terrain.

Learn about where civil rights history happened in a way you and your family will never forget. More than a fourth of all the attractions on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail are in Alabama.

Discover a land of rare animals and places—incredible biodiversity you never dreamed existed in a state containing what's been referred to as "America's Amazon."

Perhaps the lush greenery you seek is on one of the world's great golf trails. Tee off on any of the 26 courses that are part of Alabama's legendary Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail, considered some of the best and most affordable golf in the world.

Finally, explore 11 national park attractions, spotlighting Alabama's outdoor wonders, American heroes, Native American culture, military history or landmark civil rights achievements, that dot the state.

These are just some of the many adventures awaiting you in Alabama—adventures you can start planning with this vacation guide and Alabama.Travel.

ALABAMA ROAD TRIPS

Whether you seek a relaxing beach drive, a gleeful shopping spree or a delectable spin through the state's 100 Dishes to Eat, you can find the perfect Alabama road trip using this free, official app for iPhone and Android. Alabama.Travel/road-trips-app

ALABAMA CIVIL RIGHTS TRAIL

Available for iPhone and Android devices, this no-cost, official app traces the state's role in the struggle—and the progress—for equality by exploring the people, places and events that put Alabama in the civil rights spotlight. Alabama.Travel/civil-rights-app

Alabama Online

Plan a trip, engage with other visitors, share photos and get to know Alabama via Alabama.Travel, the state's official website. An interactive map helps you determine where to eat, what to do and where to stay—all within defined areas of the state, such as Lake Guntersville in North Alabama or The Wiregrass in South Alabama. Use these trip-planning tools to label favorites and to save locations and events, thus completely personalizing your trip. Tag your social media posts with #SweetHomeAlabama for a chance to see your images on Alabama.Travel.

ABOUT THE ICONS

Illustrated icons (above) on Alabama.Travel and throughout this guide point to categories of activities available in the state. Interested in the outdoors? Look for the canoe between the trees icon. Desiring a bit of arts and culture? Look for the theater icon. A few are specific to Alabama: the Selma Bridge icon, representing the state's civil rights legacy, and the rocket icon, leading guests to science and discovery.

An Ear for History

Thanks to the Alabama Tourism Department's recently launched Alabama Civil Rights Trail Podcast, listeners can gain deeper understanding of the people, places and events that influenced the Civil Rights Movement. Each of the three parts in the series features real stories told by people who were there. They were the foot soldiers who held the front lines. They were the freedom riders and protestors. They sat when people ordered them to leave. Historians and experts help put the stories in context, thus reminding today's listeners why the events and actions—the Freedom Riders, civil rights-era bombings and terrorist-like violence, and voting rights marches—from decades ago remain so relevant today. The podcast is available wherever you get your podcasts or at Alabama.Travel/CivilRights.

THE YEAR OF NATIONAL PARK ATTRACTIONS IN ALABAMA

Feel the spray as you paddle past spectacular waterfalls. Hike mountain trails or drive past majestic, primordial forests. Witness monuments to the milestones of history, such as this stained-glass window that the people of Wales donated to Birmingham's 16th Street Baptist Church (above). Come see why people love to witness the historic and the beautiful by exploring Alabama's federal parks, monuments and trails.

GET READY FOR ALABAMA

Before you visit, get acquainted with the ways Alabama is influencing America's conversations on history, fashion, music and more.

READ

SOUTHERN GRIT: 100+ DOWN-HOME RECIPES FOR THE MODERN COOK by Alabama native and 2019 "Top Chef" winner Kelsey Barnard Clark features her favorite recipes, including some of her grandmother's. Personal stories and pro tips complement some of the more than 100 dishes, which are organized by eating times and types: Happy Hour Bites & Sips, Greens, Pork & Beef, and Breads & Pastries, to name a few. Think recipes like Savannah Peach Sangria, Tomato Pie and OG Buttermilk Biscuits. When asked how this wife, mom and owner of KBC restaurant in Dothan manages to do so much and to do it well, she says, "That's the definition of a Southern woman; they usually do it all." Available wherever books are sold.

LISTEN

"HAPPY ALL THE TIME" pairs Sam Williams, grandson of Hank Williams, with Dolly Parton for this soulful country duet about the meaning of true wealth. Williams comes from generations of musicians, including his dad, Hank Williams Jr., and his grandfather, Hank Sr. He follows their legacy, and at only 24, is thrilled to have Parton's blessing and collaboration. This single is part of his Glasshouse Children album, available on Spotify and through Apple Music.

WATCH

"RESPECT," a biopic starring Jennifer Hudson as legendary vocalist Aretha Franklin, chronicles Franklin's singing career, which began with her singing at church and concluded with her recognized internationally as the Queen of Soul. A 15- to 20-minute segment of the motion picture takes place in Muscle Shoals at FAME, the studio where some sessions for her 1967 album, I Never Loved a Man the Way I Love You, took place. Franklin credits that recording and the house band, Muscle Shoals Rhythm Section, with making her a star after multiple failed albums with Columbia. According to Franklin, Muscle Shoals is where she "found her sound." She cut later hits, including the song "Respect," in New York with members of Muscle Shoals Rhythm Section, later known as The Swampers.

PLAY

HELEN KELLER has taken her place alongside Barbie, thanks to Mattel's latest release of Inspiring Women dolls. The collection features notable women from history and includes another Alabama native, Rosa Parks. At 19 months, Keller, who was born in Tuscumbia, contracted an unknown illness that rendered her deaf and blind. She did not allow her physical challenges to defeat her, however. She learned to communicate and became the first deafblind person to earn a Bachelor of Arts. She was also a renowned author, speaker, educator and advocate. Find the doll at mass retailers and toy shops, including Target, Walmart, Macy's and FAO Schwarz.

WEAR

DESIGNERS NATALIE CHANIN AND BILLY REID may showcase their women's and men's fashions on international and domestic runways, but they and their brands are headquartered in Florence, Alabama. This past year, Vogue featured them in a piece about clothing designers who are "changing the landscape of American fashion." In the article, author Laird Borrelli-Persson notes that Chanin's brand is now a case study in how to do slow fashion responsibly and right. Similarly, Reid has made place an essential part of his work. "We are a modern Southern studio that we hope models a new South," says Reid in the article. Find Chanin's designs at alabamachanin.com, Billy Reid's at Nordstrom and billyreid.com.

LIFE WITH PETS

Knowing where to "stay" and where to "roll over" when traveling with pets helps ensure a successful vacation for all.

BY LAURA MCGILL

FROM DOG-FRIENDLY LODGING AND LAID-BACK RESTAURANTS to Gulf Coast beaches and plenty-of-room-to-roam state parks, these stops welcome your favorite canine.

Gulf Coast Beaches

Dauphin Island's public strands and Fort Morgan's bayside beach allow leashed dogs to run on the sands and frolic in the waves. Just be sure to pick up any waste.

Remy's Dog Park (right)

These six acres of dog-dedicated space inside Birmingham's Red Mountain Park include a special-needs area for dogs that are physically challenged, elderly, injured or simply shy.

Back Forty Beer Co.

This Gadsden brewery earns nods for its beer, but also for its puppy love. Dogs are welcome on the front porch, where they have access to water and mini pools. Also, the first Tuesday of the month is Yappy Hour.

Pirates Cove

New state legislation enables restaurants to allow dogs on outdoor patios, and Pirates Cove in Elberta is one of many eateries to adopt the change. Dogs love it here; they can swim in the surf while munching a stray burger or fry.

Elyton Hotel

Pamper your pooch with an upscale stay in Birmingham, ranked among America's pet-friendliest cities. The Elyton, a boutique hotel that is part of Marriott's Autograph Collection, offers a doggie bed; a signature Elyton bandanna; food/water bowls; treats; doggie bags; and guides to pet parks, pet stores, and pet spa services.

Most Alabama beaches do not allow dogs; Dauphin Island's public beach (pictured above) is an exception. Leashed dogs are allowed.

Tail Trails

Grab a leash and hit these favored hiking spots with your dog.

Kiesel Park, Auburn
A 2.25-mile trail gives you and your dog a place to exercise, but if your four-legged companion needs more, let Fido loose in the spacious off-leash area with agility equipment.

Historic Blakeley State Park, Spanish Fort
Twenty-plus miles of trails wind past Civil War ramparts.

Cane Creek Canyon Nature Preserve, Tuscumbia
Signs to the Turquoise Pool lead to a lovely swimming hole where dogs and humans alike can cool off after tackling up to 15 miles of trails.

Chinnabee Silent Hiking Trail, Lineville
Expect your pooch to pant on this six-mile climb past waterfalls and rocky outcroppings to the top of Talladega Mountain inside Talladega National Forest.

10 Awesome Outdoor Alabama Adventures

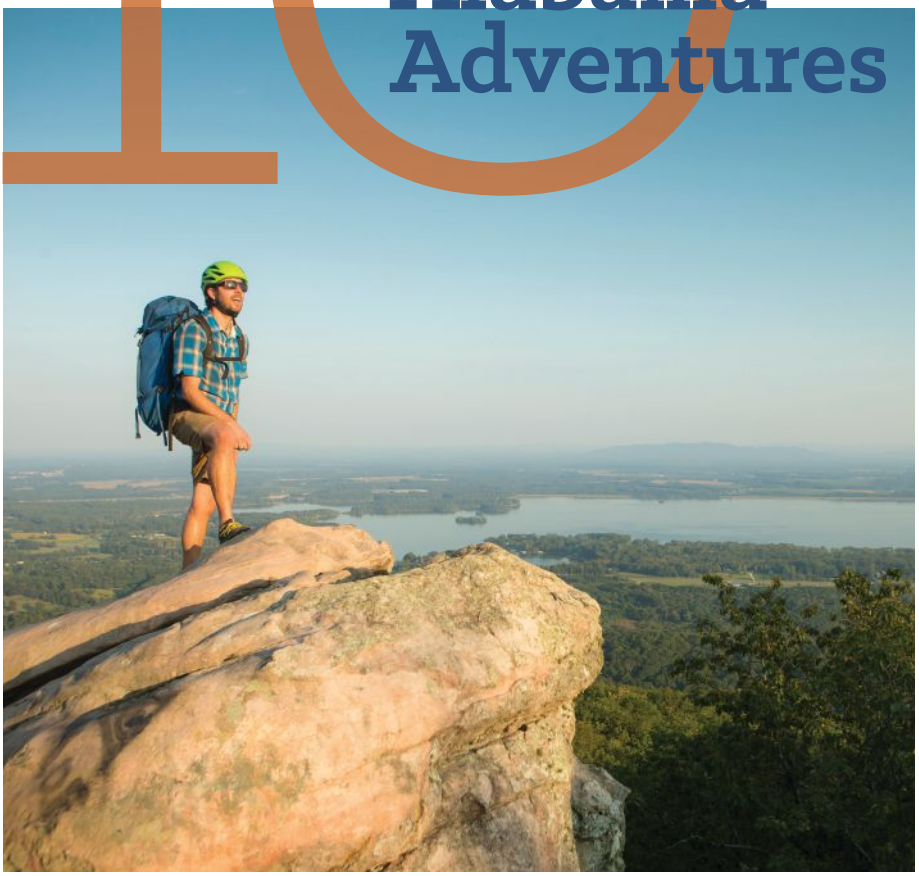
BY LAURA MCGILL



FROM BACKPACKING TO FISHING AND CAVING TO SOAKING IN THE SUNSET, CHECK OUT THIS DOUBLE FIST OF OUTDOOR EXPLORATIONS YOU DON'T WANT TO MISS.

1 Bouldering at Cherokee Rock Village

Tucked away on County Road 70 southwest of Leesburg, this 300-acre park presents massive boulders just begging to be conquered. Purchase gear at the park to be sure you have what you need to make it to the top, where views of Weiss Lake are well worth the climb.

2 Seeing Noccalula Falls

The waters—from small trickles to roaring cascades—of Black Creek are ever changing as they tumble more than 90 feet into the ravine below. The park includes a ticketed area with attractions, but the falls overlook is free of charge and open daily.

3 Hiking Dismals Canyon

The daytime views are filled with natural wonders, but the real magic happens when the sun goes down. That's when the Dismalites, commonly known as glowworms, put on a show. Take a nighttime guided tour to see these tiny bioluminescent beings, which are found in very few places on Earth.

4 Backpacking the Pinhoti Trail

More than 330 miles stretch from Flagg Mountain near Weogufka to across the Georgia line, making this trail an ideal one for backpacking. You could set out for an epic trek or mix up a series of shorter overnights to experience what's sometimes regarded as the southernmost end of the Appalachian Trail.

Mountain biker: ATD/Jamie Martin, all others: ATD/Chris Granger

5 Pedaling Coldwater Mountain Bike Trail

Ready to catch some air and bomb a run? Then you'll want to experience the hang-on-tight thrill of two miles of gravity trails. The complete 35-plus miles are accessible from two trailheads: off Coldwater Road and Monsanto Street, both in Anniston.

6 Upland bird hunting at Pursell Farms

Membership certainly has its privileges, like upland hunting for pheasants, quail and waterfowl at the ORVIS® Shooting Grounds at Pursell Farms in Sylacauga. The private hunts are available Oct. 15–March 15. For year-round, no-membership-needed marksmanship, try your luck at shooting sporting clays.

7 Fishing the Alabama Bass Trail

Whether you put your reputation on the line in a fishing tournament or just cast in private, the 13 water bodies (lakes, rivers and delta) along the trail are an angler's delight. Among others, locations include Lewis Smith Lake, Lake Guntersville, Logan Martin Lake and Lake Eufaula.

8 Paddling the Alabama Scenic River Trail

Pick a portion, or get ambitious and boat all of the more than 5,300 miles of accessible waterways that range from gentle flows to Class III whitewater. If you're comfortable, you can DIY a river journey. Otherwise, numerous outfitters are available to guide you on any of the more than 20 blueways that make up the trail.

9 Caving in North Alabama

Get your adrenaline pumping with different rappels, climbing, crawling through small spaces and crossing deep crevasses on ladders in some of the state's wild caves. Guides with Fort Payne-based True Adventure Sports will lead the way. The physical tests are well worth the subterranean rewards.

10 Sailing on the Gulf Coast

You just can't help but exhale and smile on a relaxing sunset sail. Frolicking dolphins may compete for your attention on cruises with Sail Wild Hearts, Cetacean Cruises or Back Bay Sailing Adventures. Most cruises provide snacks or allow you to bring your own.

On the MENU

LANE CAKES

Alabamians have a love-hate relationship with the state's official dessert: Lane Cake. First, it takes quite a bit of effort to make—at least two hours of hands-on time, says Bianca Priest, owner of Birmingham-based Who Doesn't Like Cake. Second, in a state where dry counties still exist, the signature bourbon ingredient is sometimes perceived as "a little much." Nevertheless, when the butter cake, layered with raisins, pecans, coconut (and bourbon), is served, foodies recognize why Emma Rylander Lane of Clayton, Alabama, earned first prize at a county baking competition more than 100 years ago. Author Harper Lee later immortalized the cake when she mentioned it in To Kill a Mockingbird.

GULF SHRIMP

Shrimpers harvest pinks, whites and browns from the Gulf of Mexico year-round, ensuring only the freshest hit the plate.

SWEET TEA

This versatile iced beverage pairs well with everything, but somehow it seems best savored on a front porch.

BARBECUE

Two things define the Yellowhammer State's 'cue: thick slabs of meaty ribs often cooked over direct heat and a condiment all its own. A mayonnaise-and-vinegar-based concoction developed by Big Bob Gibson that once "baptized" only chicken in Decatur has spread across the state and onto pork, too.

PEANUTS

While at Tuskegee Institute, George Washington Carver raised awareness of peanuts' many uses. Today, Alabama is among the country's top three peanut-producing states. You'll find plenty of places to try goober peas near Dothan, the self-proclaimed Peanut Capital of the World. Eat them boiled, the true Alabama way.

Cake, shrimp, pecans, pudding, tomatoes & peaches: ATD/Chris Granger, barbecue: ATD/Art Meripol, tea: courtesy of Milo's Tea Co., peanuts: ©oxyzay - stock.adobe.com

Go shrimping, pick peaches and fry up green tomatoes. Tables overflow with what is grown or caught nearby. Savor these local ingredients and dishes whenever you can—whether you find them in a restaurant or at a local farm stand. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

FRIED CHICKEN

A luxury until the mid-20th century, chicken, usually fried, is now a staple of the Alabama diet, thanks to the state's burgeoning poultry industry. (It's No. 2 in the country!)

PECANS

Pecan orchards dot roughly 30 counties in the state and occupy approximately 9,000 acres. Stop at farms on I-65 and in Baldwin and Mobile counties to sample the nut.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

Author Fannie Flagg made this dish famous in her novel Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistle Stop Café, the inspiration for which is found in the real-life Irondale Café. Crispy on the outside, soft on the inside, fried green tomatoes are a symbol of the state's agricultural heritage. Savor them as a side for a meat-and-three or as an appetizer.

FRIED CATFISH

Prolific in Alabama rivers and lakes, catfish have long been a favorite catch, particularly channels, blues and flatheads, with some anglers saying they prefer bullheads. Seasoned dry or doused in wet batter, you can't go wrong with any of the species once they're sizzling. Find the crispy deliciousness served statewide, often with lemon and tartar sauce. Coleslaw, hushpuppies or fries also might share the plate and palate.

BANANA PUDDING

Homemade with real bananas and vanilla wafers, this creamy dessert has its roots in Mobile, where in the early 1900s, longshoremen unloaded bananas at the city's docks and Mobile was the nation's third-largest importer of the fruit.

PEACHES

Find them fresh, canned and cooked in pies, but cobbler and ice cream are favorites. Clanton in Chilton County is serious peach country.

CHEERS!

Southern COMFORT

Having a great vacation has a lot to do with where you stay. Check out (and into) some of the state's most ideal places to lay down your sleepy head.

BY RICK HARMON

Whether you are seeking the historic charm of century-old splendor, the pleasure and convenience of modern opulence, or a combination of the two, Alabama has an ideal spot for you to stay. Each promises Southern comfort and hospitality, along with plenty of sweet dreams.

THE LODGE AT GULF STATE PARK, Gulf Shores

Looking for a room with a great view? The Lodge at Gulf State Park, a Hilton Hotel on the white sands of Gulf Shores, presents some of the state's best. The hotel is in the beautiful natural wonder that is the 6,150-acre Gulf State Park, and the property takes full advantage of that location. A beachfront ballroom with an outdoor terrace overlooks the Gulf and sands, as do a pool with bar and grill and a restaurant with terrace seating and a private dining room. Savor house-prepared, locally sourced dishes that highlight fresh Alabama Gulf Seafood, lettuce, tomatoes and anything else the chefs can procure from Alabama farmers. The Lodge also offers access to 28 miles of educational hiking and biking trails, a nature center, outdoor classrooms, an interpretive center, tennis, kayaking, guided nature walks, a butterfly garden, forestland and beach pavilions.

Marriott Grand Hotel in Point Clear, AL— amazing family pool, small beach and water activities if you're into that, quaint Fairhope nearby, great restaurants and family stuff. It's my kids' favorite place to go.

THE BATTLE HOUSE RENAISSANCE MOBILE HOTEL & SPA, Mobile

Named U.S. News and World Report's No. 1 hotel in Alabama in 2021, Mobile's Battle House opened in 1852 on the site that Andrew Jackson had used as his military headquarters during the War of 1812. The hotel also earned recognition from Historic Hotels of America, which named it the Best Historic Hotel of 200 to 400 rooms. The venerable property combines modern luxury, such as its award-winning spa and salon and rooftop swimming pool and tennis courts, with classic splendor, exemplified by its gorgeous Grand Lobby and The Trellis Room restaurant. The former features a beautiful, glass-domed ceiling crafted in the early 1900s, while the latter captures attention with its Tiffany-glass skylight and complementary AAA Four Diamond rating.

ST. JAMES HOTEL SELMA, TAPESTRY COLLECTION BY HILTON, Selma

Alabama is full of historic hotels. Stay at this 184-year-old Selma landmark. The outlaw Jesse James did. It's only a short walk from one of the Civil Rights Movement's most iconic sites, the Edmund Pettus Bridge, where on March 7, 1965, Bloody Sunday occurred. Once again, history is matched with modern convenience, as the St. James recently underwent a $5 million facelift, transforming the 52-room hotel into part of Hilton's Tapestry Collection.

GRAND HOTEL GOLF RESORT & SPA, Point Clear

Built in 1847 to house steamboat passengers, the Grand Hotel is now a resort where history and luxury merge. It is perennially included on lists of the state's best hotels and resorts. Its Lakewood Golf Club boasts two golf courses, the Dogwood and Azalea, which have helped the Grand Hotel repeatedly make Golf Magazine's "Best Golf Resorts in America." It also welcomes guests with a top-flight spa, a hot tub, a fitness center, seven bars and restaurants, an indoor pool, and a lagoon-style pool with a kids' pool.

GRAND BOHEMIAN HOTEL MOUNTAIN BROOK, AUTOGRAPH COLLECTION, Birmingham

A hotel doesn't need to be historic to be elegant. Among Alabama's first boutique luxury stays, the Grand Bohemian Hotel Mountain Brook was named the third-best hotel in the state in U.S. News and World Report's 2021 rankings. Guests enjoy many amenities, including a restaurant; rooftop bar and terrace, complete with illuminated ottomans; a wine-blending room; a full-service spa; cooking classes taught by a top area chef; and a 2,600-square-foot art gallery and attached sculpture garden.

FORT CONDÉ INN, Mobile

Built in 1836, Fort Condé Inn exudes the style and atmosphere of 19th-century Mobile. Two years of painstaking renovation have transformed what was once Mobile's second-oldest house into a dazzling inn. The remarkable accommodation, which has been awarded AAA Four Diamond status and was named the fifth-best hotel in the state in U.S. News and World Report's 2021 rankings, features original pine flooring, 12-foot ceilings and crystal chandeliers. This year, a pool will open as well as Bistro St. Emanuel. The eatery will serve dinner and Sunday brunch, and will offer catering for all events held on-site.

THE WESTIN HUNTSVILLE, Huntsville

Whether you are interested in interplanetary travel or some of the state's best shopping, your vacation should revolve around the 232-room Westin Huntsville, located less than three miles from the U.S. Space & Rocket Center and within Bridge Street Town Centre. The hotel, which completed a $7 million upgrade a few years ago, was on the Condé Nast Readers' Choice List in 2019 and was given a AAA Four Diamond Award rating that same year. It earned the No. 7 spot on U.S. News and World Report's 2021 state hotel rankings.

MARRIOTT SHOALS HOTEL & SPA, Florence

At the Marriott Shoals, enjoy a lavish spa, swimming pools, golf and the 360 Grille, a revolving restaurant known for both its spectacular food and spectacular views of the surrounding Tenneesee River Valley. You also can catch the music for which the Shoals is famous at the hotel's Swampers Bar and Grille.

SMALL-TOWN CHARMS

BY RICK HARMON

Venture beyond the big cities to appreciate Alabama's small towns and discover what makes them destinations well worth adding to your itinerary.

POINT CLEAR

Stay at the Grand Hotel Golf Resort & Spa, named among the top resorts in Alabama by U.S. News and World Report and, in 2021, the No. 3 Best Historic Hotel in the country by USA Today. While there, play the 18-hole courses at the Lakewood Club, which Golf Magazine has included in its list of "Best Golf Resorts." Leave some time in your schedule for a sweet stop at Punta Clara Kitchen. Celebrating 70 years in 2022, this Southern staple is known equally for its homemade fudge and pralines as its pickles and preserves.

DEMOPOLIS

Founded by French expatriates after the fall of Napoleon, Demopolis features a treasure trove of 1800s historical buildings. Gaineswood, a mansion and National Historic Landmark, is perhaps the most well-known of them, followed by other house museums open for touring: Bluff Hall and Lyon Hall. Carpenter Gothic-style Ashe Cottage and Federal-style Curtis House can be viewed from the road. Take a break from historical architecture to walk the nature trail at Foscue Creek Park beside Demopolis Lake.

ALEXANDER CITY

Relax at Lake Martin, one of the largest and loveliest man-made lakes in the country. Rev up at the Wellborn Musclecar Museum with its superb collection of 1960s and '70s American automobiles. Refresh with a limeade at Carlisle's, just like people have done since 1914. June usually sees musicians take the stage during Alexander City Jazz Fest, one of the state's top free music festivals. No matter when you come, you're sure to be greeted by friendly folks, who are happy to show off their revitalized downtown and favorite spots.

MOORESVILLE

How can a town so small contain so much history? The entire town, population 63, is on the National Register of Historic Places. Visit the state's oldest operational post office, built around 1840, and the Stagecoach Tavern, built about 1821. While a Union general, future president James A. Garfield gave sermons at the local church, and future president Andrew Johnson worked in a downtown tailor's shop. This May 7–8, the town will host its first Historic Mooresville Art Festival, a juried art fair featuring about 100 artists.

TAKE A JOURNEY; COME BACK CHANGED

Interactive technology brings history alive in the new, official guidebook to the sites on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail.

The Official United States Civil Rights Trail by Alabama Tourism Director Lee Sentell spotlights museums and experiences in Anniston, Birmingham, Montgomery, Selma and Tuskegee, as well as other Southern cities in the 15 states through which the Civil Rights Trail passes.

The 128-page book expands on the content found at civilrightstrail.com and lays the foundation for a journey that explores the context and background for school integration, protest marches, equal voting rights, freedom rides, sit-ins and more. Get acquainted with the people, stories and actions that pushed the American Civil Rights Movement along from Topeka, Kansas, to Memphis, Tennessee, and from Atlanta to Washington, D.C. Using the book as a companion to the trail, travelers can immerse themselves in the history and then hold onto those experiences long after they have returned home. Purchase the book at Books-A-Million or at Amazon.

EXPLORE THE STORIES THROUGH A MOVING AUGMENTED REALITY EXPERIENCE.

In a "first" for travel books, certain pages come to life with additional images, videos and interviews, thanks to augmented reality (AR) technology. With a smartphone, simply photograph a QR code found on certain pages. For example, Little Rock, Arkansas, images come alive on pages 52–53; Greensboro, North Carolina, pictures on pages 60–61; and Selma extras on pages 104–105. Once travelers launch the experience, they also can join an online book club via social media.

CRUISING THE NATCHEZ TRACE PARKWAY

Discover Alabama's scenic portion of this popular three-state, 444-mile designated National Scenic Byway and All-American Road. BY LAURA MCGILL

Whether you are traveling the Natchez Trace Parkway by bike, car, motorcycle or RV, you are on the road to a history-packed, nature-filled adventure. The parkway, which roughly follows the historic Natchez Trace between Franklin, Tennessee, and Natchez, Mississippi, has been under the care of the National Park Service since 1938, but the stories it shares date back more than 10,000 years.

The trace long served as a vital travel path for Native Americans, European settlers, slave traders, soldiers and many others, both nameless and famous (Meriwether Lewis, John James Audubon and Ulysses S. Grant, for example), who used the corridor first for following game and later for commerce. As the number of travelers increased, inns, or stands, popped up to provide places to rest and to eat. The comforts were few, and the way often was fraught with danger due to bandits and highwaymen.

Traveling the modern parkway's 33 miles in Alabama, with a 50 mile-per-hour speed limit for most of the route and pretty views, provides an opportunity to imagine all those souls who journeyed here before you and to contemplate the beauty of Alabama's northwest corner. Plan to stop at six sites to enjoy small natural springs and a mighty river, simple pathways and steep climbs.

The nearby cities of Florence and Tuscumbia are convenient locations to fuel up and stock up for your Natchez Trace Parkway experience.

Bear Creek: milepost 313.0

Just four miles in from the Mississippi line, you can pause for a break. The area features picnic tables and grills. Access to the water may be steep for some visitors, but just in case it's perfect for you, bring your fishing gear to see what's biting in the creek.

Freedom Hills Overlook: milepost 317.0

Test your stamina on the steep, quarter-mile trail that leads to the overlook, and to Alabama's highest point on the parkway. Views are better in late autumn and winter when the leaves have fallen.

Buzzard Roost Spring: milepost 320.3

The spring at Buzzard Roost once served as the water source for an inn along the original trace. Today, a small interpretive site lends context to the former operation, and a short walk from the parkway rewards travelers with the soothing sounds of the spring.

Colbert Ferry: milepost 327.3

From 1800 to 1819, this spot on the Tennessee River was where Chickasaw George Colbert operated a ferry. His nearby inn was a popular stop for travelers seeking rest and a warm meal. Today's visitors can launch a boat, fish or simply enjoy river views here while having lunch at one of the picnic tables. Restrooms are also available. Take the 50-yard walk from the parking area to see the spot where the inn once stood.

Lauderdale: milepost 328.7

The previous stop of Colbert Ferry lies on the southern shore of the Tennessee River. Cross the river and take in the view from the northern shore. A small picnic area is available.

Rock Spring: milepost 330.2

The namesake natural spring often features deep pools that serve as homes to small fish. A nearby trail and stepping stones take you across Colbert Creek and into a wooded area. If you visit this stop in the spring and fall, you may be sharing the space with hundreds of Ruby-throated hummingbirds as they seek the nectar of area wildflowers.

Visit nps.gov/natr to learn more about the entire length of the Natchez Trace and the Natchez Trace Parkway.

INSIDER TIP

Posted speed limits are strictly enforced. Please be aware of road conditions, especially in the winter months. Be prepared to share the road with cyclists as this is a popular route for them.

PAINFUL STEPS TO TAKE

Follow in the footsteps of the Cherokee people and recognize their struggle and perseverance on Alabama's portion of the Trail of Tears. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

THE FORCED REMOVAL of indigenous people from their homeland is not a happy story, yet it is one worth following to honor and recognize what they endured. The Trail of Tears National Historic Trail stretches roughly 5,000 miles through North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Oklahoma. In Alabama, six National Park Service-certified sites comprise the trail, but others help further interpret the Cherokee people's sad journey west.

Andrew Ross House

This private residence once belonging to Andrew Ross is not open to the public, but you can drive by it. Ross was a Cherokee businessman and judge on the Cherokee Supreme Court before he and his wife and daughter relocated to western Indian lands. 4502 Godfrey Ave.; Fort Payne.

Fort Payne Cabin Site

Open by appointment, this site contains what's left on the property that federal troops seized and turned into a fort while removing the Cherokee. The cabin belonged to John Huss, a Cherokee, and was built circa 1825. Located at the east end of 4th St. SE (just east of Gault Ave. S); Fort Payne.

Tuscumbia Landing

Alabama's native people were removed by land and water. This site, the western terminus of the Tuscumbia, Courtland and Decatur Railway, was one of the locations where they were gathered and then loaded onto boats to float the Tennessee River west. Found at the confluence of the Tennessee River and Spring Creek, near the foot of Blackwell Road; Sheffield.

Waterloo Landing

Located on today's Pickwick Lake, formed by damming the Tennessee River, this landing saw 700 Cherokee, led by Captain Gustavus S. Drane, end their 230-mile overland journey and board a steamboat for the next leg of their relocation in 1838. Located at the end of Main St.; Waterloo.

Willstown Mission Cemetery

Prior to Congress passing the Indian Removal Act in 1830, Cherokee leaders successfully opened a mission for the Cherokee in Willstown. In February 1828, Rev. Hoyt, the school's superintendent, died and was buried on the property. His is one of the few marked graves. The other unidentified 50 or so are suspected to be those of Cherokee who died in camp while moving westward. Situated near intersection of 38th St. NE and Godfrey Ave. NE; Fort Payne.

Manitou Cave

This amazing natural wonder, open by appointment only, was certified as a Trail of Tears National Historic Trail Interpretive Center in 2021. The cave holds great significance to the Cherokee nation, in part because Cherokee syllabary, developed by Sequoyah, is found inscribed on the cave's walls and ceiling. Located at the foot of Lookout Mountain; Fort Payne.

A SCENIC ATTRACTION

Some places get better with age. Such is the case with Little River Canyon National Preserve, which celebrates 30 years in 2022 as a designated national preserve. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

Legislators and lobbyists had the right idea when they pushed for and adopted Public Law 102–147 in 1992 to protect the landscapes of the Little River Canyon. Spreading east of Fort Payne, the rugged terrain cradles the Little River, whose swift waters have tumbled through the sandstone and other sedimentary rocks for eons, carving a canyon beloved by artists, outdoor enthusiasts, botanists, wildlife watchers and geologists alike. Part of what makes the river unusual, however, is that it mostly flows atop Lookout Mountain.

See a good portion of the combined river-canyon beauty from Canyon Rim Drive. It parallels the west rim of the canyon and presents loads of opportunities to hop out at overlooks, snap photos or launch a hike. With more than 11,000 federally owned and managed acres, adventurers find plenty to explore.

Scenic driving is a no-brainer, as is hiking. Both activities can lead to outstanding views of Little River Falls, one of the preserve's must-sees. The 45-foot-tall curtain is at the park's north end where the canyon first begins. Depending on the water flow—Little River can be swift and dangerous or slow and mild—you might see people whitewater kayaking or possibly swimming. Both should be done with caution and experience, notes Steve Black, the national preserve's superintendent. If paddling is your thing, he notes, consider one of the kayaking tours that the national preserve sometimes hosts in March or April. It's a short window and the water has to be just right, but veteran paddlers love the rush.

Other DIY recreation includes horseback riding, bicycling and rock climbing. Equestrians are invited to ride any of the open, numbered roads in the backcountry in the preserve's designated wildlife management area. Here, the trails are forested, dirt or gravel, and laced with creek crossings. Be advised that the roads are shared with four-wheel-drive vehicles, hikers and bicyclists; Everyone wants to enjoy the abundant scenic sights!

The overlap between horseback riders and bikers occurs in the wildlife management area since that is where mountain biking is allowed. Mountain bikers have access to the same 23 miles as equestrians. Road cyclists, however, tend to stick to Alabama Highway 176, a two-lane, scenic road with no shoulder or bike lanes. Just as in the woods, cyclists need to be aware of what is around them, as do drivers sharing the road.

The final outdoor activity gem, says Black, is rock climbing. The canyon walls and cliffs offer some of the most difficult and wish-you-could-bag climbing routes in the South. Luckily, access to them is much easier than the climbs themselves. Simply pull over on the side of Alabama Highway 176 and find a boulder or cliff. Be sure to bring all your own equipment, and do not add or remove any bolts from the cliffs or carry equipment that would allow you to do so.

RELIVE CIVIL RIGHTS HEROISM

Few places can help you understand the courage and determination required to battle racism and segregation better than the Birmingham Civil Rights National Monument. BY RICK HARMON

Walk through Kelly Ingram Park, and the sculptures evoke the terror Black demonstrators overcame in their pursuit of civil rights. Firemen aimed high-powered water hoses, and police dogs attacked nonviolent activists, including children marching as part of the Children's Crusade. Klansmen tried to assassinate the leaders of the movement, including Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth and Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. And just as the federal government finally took a stand to secure court-ordered desegregation of schools in the South, Klansmen dynamited the basement of the 16th Street Baptist Church, killing four young girls.

Ensuring the bravery of these civil rights' heroes would be remembered, President Barack Obama created the Birmingham Civil Rights National sMonument in 2017. This National Park Service site encompasses Birmingham Civil Rights Institute, Kelly Ingram Park, the A.G. Gaston Motel, 16th Street Baptist Church, The Historic Bethel Baptist Church, St. Paul United Methodist Church, The Masonic Temple Building and the Fourth Avenue Business District.

16th Street Baptist Church is perhaps the most iconic structure in the Birmingham Civil Rights National Monument. Make sure you see the stained-glass window of a Black man pushing away hatred and injustice with his right hand, while offering his left hand in forgiveness. The people of Wales raised the money for the window after the 1963 bombing, and it was given to the church.

Four-acre Kelly Ingram Park was a staging area for large-scale civil rights demonstrations April to May 1963. The demonstrations were met with violence, including attacks on protesting children, some as young as 6 years old, that shocked the country and still shock visitors through lifelike statues interpreting the events.

The Birmingham Civil Rights Institute features numerous exhibits, including the actual jail cell door behind which the imprisoned Dr. King penned his famous "Letter From Birmingham Jail." It is also the repository for an extensive archive of Civil Rights Movement documents and nearly 500 recorded oral histories about the period.

St. Paul United Methodist Church hosted meetings to integrate Birmingham buses in 1956 and sessions to train demonstrators in nonviolent civil disobedience in 1963. Activists met here to take part in 1963's Palm Sunday March, led by Rev. N.H. Smith, Rev. A.D. King and Rev. John Porter. St. Paul UMC is still a place of worship and continues to host civil rights events.

The A.G. Gaston Motel, opened in 1954 to provide quality lodging to African-American travelers, served as the headquarters of the campaign to desegregate the city's public accommodations in 1963. The hotel's exterior has been renovated to appear as it did in 1963, and the city hopes to complete renovations on half the interior before Birmingham hosts the World Games in July 2022.

White supremacists bombed the church and parsonage three times. When the church's congregation moved in 1997, The Historic Bethel Baptist Church was converted into a museum.

The Fourth Avenue Business District was a vibrant area of commerce for Black-owned businesses, where African-American consumers were welcomed into stores and restaurants. One of the iconic buildings within the district is The Masonic Temple Building, which housed both Black professionals and civil rights organizations, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Although the building is currently vacant, a multimillion-dollar renovation is being discussed.

FREEDOM RIDERS NATIONAL MONUMENT

Looking up at the bus mural in the alley near the Anniston Greyhound Bus depot is like walking into the past, says Kristofer Bucher, the superintendent who oversees both the Anniston and Birmingham national monuments.

He says it looks much like it would have in 1961, when a busload of Black and white demonstrators, called Freedom Riders, were attacked for testing federal laws allowing interstate bus transportation to be integrated.

"The area almost seems frozen in time," he says, adding that you can look at the bus and the surroundings and try to feel what the civil rights protestors felt that day while it was happening.

The day was Mother's Day 1961, when the Freedom Riders' bus was attacked at the Anniston Greyhound Bus Station and later burned about six miles out of town on Route 202.

While the mural with its interpretive panels is the main part of the monument now, more is planned. The interior of the bus depot is expected to reopen post-pandemic, and there are plans for rotating exhibits.

CHANGE WAS AFOOT IN TUSKEGEE

Two national historic sites in Tuskegee, the Tuskegee Institute and the Tuskegee Airmen, honor the people and work that forever changed the lives of Black Americans by helping Black education soar and Black pilots take flight. BY RICK HARMON

At its core, the Tuskegee Institute National Historic Site "preserves the legacy and associated historic structures of the historic Tuskegee Institute." Start your visit on the campus of what is now called Tuskegee University, the historically Black college founded in 1881 as the Tuskegee Normal School. Booker T. Washington was the first president of the school, which educated Black teachers and sent them out to train others. Washington and scientist George Washington Carver turned Tuskegee into one of America's most-respected Black colleges.

The Oaks, Booker T. Washington's former home, functions now as a museum, showcasing decorative touches that Washington and his wife picked up from a trip to Europe while the house was under construction in 1899 as well as furnishings made by students and local craftsmen. Tuskegee students built this three-story, 15-room, Queen Anne-style house, making the bricks by hand. Faculty member Robert R. Taylor, the first accredited African-American architect and the first Black graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, designed it.

Washington lived at the house until his death in 1915. He was visited here by a who's who of guests, from presidents William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt to philanthropist Andrew Carnegie. Park rangers conduct free, 45-minute tours of The Oaks, usually at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. and 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. A tour is the only way to see the inside of the house. For information, go to www.nps.gov/tuin/planyourvisit/things2do.htm.

After seeing The Oaks, visit the George Washington Carver Museum. Carver, the world-renowned African-American scientist who headed Tuskegee's agriculture department, revolutionized farming in the South by teaching Black and white cotton farmers the importance of crop rotation and developed countless uses to popularize peanuts and sweet potatoes. The museum displays Carver's laboratory and workshop, plus items that were collected, used, made or worn by him. Exhibits also spotlight well-known commercial peanut products that were developed because of Carver's research.

The Tuskegee Institute National Historic Site also encompasses a 50-acre Historic Campus District consisting of most of the original campus buildings, many of which students built as part of their education. The university still owns and maintains the buildings. You may walk around this part of campus, but the buildings are not open to the public. Don't miss the "Lifting the Veil" statue, which honors Washington's push to educate Black students.

INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP TOURS ARE WELCOME AT THE TUSKEGEE AIRMEN NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE, BUT GROUPS OF 10 OR MORE SHOULD CALL 334-724-0922 ONE TO TWO WEEKS BEFORE VISITING TO MAKE RESERVATIONS.

Bottom: ATD/Meg McKinney; all others: ATD/Chris Granger

Just 3.5 miles away sits the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site, which interprets the Army Air Corps program to train African-Americans to fly and maintain combat aircraft. Before 1940, African-Americans were not allowed to fly in the U.S. military because some argued they lacked the determination and skills to be successful pilots. Triumphantly, that argument was forever disproved by the nearly 1,000 Black aviators who trained from 1941-1946. About 450 of these combat pilots completed nearly 1,500 missions over Europe and North Africa during WWII, downing enemy aircraft and crippling ground transport.

For an introduction to the program, watch the site's centerpiece video, which gives a detailed overview of the pilots, bombardiers, navigators, maintenance staff, instructors and all the personnel who kept the planes flying. The stories of surviving Tuskegee Airmen are shared in an immersive, three-screen format featuring rare WWII-era archival footage, contemporary 3D animation and filmed reenactments using period aircraft.

Inside Hangar 1, view two authentic training aircraft, a tea room and a World War II-era replica flight simulator. This Link Trainer was recently restored and unveiled. Nearby, Hangar 2 is a traditional museum area with exhibits to transport visitors to the 1940s and offer insight into what it was like for Black pilots and other personnel at Moton Field.

"The story at each park is compelling," says Ron Grissom, supervisory park ranger for both sites. "Learning about Booker T. Washington's determination and leadership, Carver's curiosity and genius, and the grit and unstoppable spirit of the airmen are cumulative at each site. The inquisitive visitor almost never leaves either of these parks without a renewed respect for the men and women remembered at both sites."

MARCHING TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

The Selma to Montgomery National Historic Trail puts visitors in the shoes of civil rights activists seeking voting rights equality. BY ANDI MARTIN

Few roadways in America bear more significance than the 54 miles of U.S. Highway 80 from Selma to Montgomery. In March 1965, it was along this highway that activists marched for Black Americans' right to vote and galvanized the Civil Rights Movement.

After two failed attempts—one of which was "Bloody Sunday," Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. successfully began what would become the Selma to Montgomery March on March 21, 1965, spurring President Johnson to sign the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Churches, bridges and farmlands—ordinary places with extraordinary stories—are preserved along the Selma to Montgomery National Historic Trail. Immerse yourself in the route that is dotted with historic markers and three National Park Service interpretive centers, one at the beginning, one in the middle and one at the end.

VISIT OTHER TRAIL HIGHLIGHTS

Many people and places contributed to the Selma to Montgomery March. Take note of these three sites to learn more about the who, the where and the why.

1 Wright Chapel AME Zion Church, located just off Hwy 80 in Lowndesboro, is a famous Civil Rights Movement meeting site.

2 Pay your respects to Jimmie Lee Jackson in Marion. It was here that the local deacon and civil rights activist was shot by an Alabama state trooper on Feb. 18, 1965. His death on Feb. 26 was a key motivation for the first march on March 7.

3 A marker along the official march route honors Viola Liuzzo, a white mother of five from Detroit, Michigan, who joined the protests after Bloody Sunday. Liuzzo was killed by KKK members on March 25, 1965, as she was shuttling activists to and from the march.

Brown Chapel AME Church, Edmund Pettus Bridge—Selma

Begin in Selma, as the protestors did, at Brown Chapel. Here, on Sunday, March 7, 1965, approximately 600 marchers gathered outside of the church for the first attempted march to Montgomery.

Led by John Lewis and Hosea Williams, civil rights advocates marching from the church to the Edmund Pettus Bridge were brutally attacked by Alabama law enforcement. The day would become known as "Bloody Sunday." The bridge, named for a former Ku Klux Klan leader, is now a beacon of freedom, visited by thousands who celebrate the civil rights heroes' eventual voting rights victory.

Interpretive Centers—Selma, Lowndes County, Montgomery

The Montgomery Interpretive Center, the third interpretive center and last site on the trail, recently opened on the Alabama State University campus in Montgomery. Exhibits here detail the successful march's final days in the capital city, events at the City of St. Jude on the last night of the march, student involvement and turmoil in Montgomery.

The Lowndes County center, opened in 2006 near Whitehall, interprets the events through photographs, a 25-minute film and a walking trail.

Since 2011, the Selma center has screened an orientation video while also curating exhibits and sharing a stunning view of the Edmund Pettus Bridge.

Ranger-led talks are offered at each center.

Campsites—along the route

Sympathizers allowed protestors making the 54-mile march to camp on their land. Though the properties are still privately owned and not open to the public, NPS signs mark where the campsites were, and you can stop and take pictures.

The first site is a farm about seven miles outside of Selma on County Road 67. The second is about 13 miles farther on U.S. Highway 80, and the third is at Frederick Douglass Road in Lowndesboro.

On March 24, marchers were welcomed at the campus of St. Jude with a "Stars for Freedom" rally where celebrities including Harry Belafonte and Nina Simone entertained nearly 10,000 protesters. An on-site museum shares stories of that night through more than 100 photographs and artifacts. Visitors are encouraged to call for an appointment.

Alabama State Capitol—Montgomery

Marchers completed their journey at the State Capitol on March 25 where King made his famous, "How Long, Not Long" speech.

Tour the capitol, which sits atop historic Dexter Avenue overlooking Dexter Memorial Baptist Church—the only church ever pastored by King.

DISCOVERING UNDERGROUND CIVILIZATIONS

Russell Cave National Monument has been a place of refuge and shelter for more than 10,000 years. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

When does an Alabama cave earn federal status and protection? When evidence of human use going back more than 10,000 years is found and documented. President John F. Kennedy named Russell Cave in Bridgeport a national monument on May 11, 1961, after archaeological teams unearthed human-related artifacts dating back more than 6,000 years. Discovered burial sites containing human remains date back 8,000 years. Geologists determined that the entrance formed roughly 11,000 years ago and is part of a cave system that stretches about seven miles underground.

Today, it matters little that you can no longer venture beyond the entrance and into the caverns and rooms of what Cosmopolitan named Alabama's coolest national park. It's fascinating to get acquainted with a place that harbors one of the most complete records of prehistoric cultures in the Southeast. Some of those records line the national monument's visitor center walls. Here, a 7-minute video presents an overview of the cave's earliest inhabitants, including the four major time periods in which they lived, and how they used the rock shelter. Display cases hold original artifacts excavated from the cave. You will see projectile points, likely used for weapons; fishhooks; basketry; pottery; and jewelry, such as earrings.

Rangers offer guided tours and demonstrations to bolster your understanding of the cave's importance to prehistoric peoples. In that vein, you might witness how to throw an atlatl, or spear. If you miss a ranger-led tour, walk the boardwalk to the cave's entrance on your own, learning about the cave and the people who used it from interpretive plaques. Another option is to download the NPS app and the 12-minute Russell Cave audio tour and then listen while you walk. Please note that cell reception at the site is poor, so you will need to download the app and audio guide from the App Store or Google Play prior to arriving.

Certainly, viewing the cave entrance and seeing the artifacts Russell Cave once contained are the main attractions, but the national monument also features other things to do. For starters, consider bringing a picnic to enjoy at the attraction's picnic site. That way, you will have plenty of fuel to also tackle a short, but steep, 1.2-mile nature hike. The asphalt path is uneven and mossy, so take care while walking among the native trees and plants. Keep an eye out for area wildlife, too. You might spy a white-tailed deer peering from behind a tree.

Finally, the area in and around Montague Mountain, where Russell Cave National Monument is located, offers some excellent opportunities for birding. About 130 different bird species live or migrate through here. Russell Cave is also one of the designated stops on the Alabama Birding Trail. Some of the notable birds spotted here include the scarlet tanager, red-tailed hawk and pileated woodpecker.

The birds, coupled with abundant game and a sheltered place to rest, make it easy to understand why for thousands of years people have wanted to visit and gather at Russell Cave.

THE NATIONAL MONUMENT

has received funding to renovate the visitor center and revamp its exhibits, which may result in a partial closure in 2022, but a temporary exhibit is expected to be erected during the renovation.

FINDING PEACE ON A BATTLEGROUND

Explore Horseshoe Bend National Military Park and discover a place for reflection, recreation and education. BY RICK HARMON

For the United States, General Andrew Jackson's victory at the Battle of Horseshoe Bend in March 1814 led to a grab of 23 million acres of Creek land in Alabama and Georgia, which was then made available to settlers. The battle also helped elect Jackson as President of the United States. For the Creek Nation, and eventually other Native American tribes, the battle instigated the Trail of Tears.

The bloody catalyst for this cruel displacement occurred on what is now 2,040-acre Horseshoe Bend National Military Park. The battle proved to be the climax of the Creek War of 1813-1814 between Red Sticks, the name given to Creeks who had decided to fight the continued encroachment of their land, and the U.S. government. The war came about after the Battle of Burnt Corn, when Alabama militia ambushed Red Sticks bringing guns back from the Spanish governor of Spanish-controlled Florida, and the Fort Mims Massacre, when Red Stick Creeks retaliated by killing hundreds of men, women and children who had taken shelter at Fort Mims.

Pick up the rest of the story at the military park. Here, on an elevated peninsula above a horseshoe-shaped bend in the Tallapoosa River, Red Stick Creeks had fortified the village they had built for the winter. On March 27, 1814, Jackson's 3,300-strong army launched an assault on the village: across the barricades with a bayonet charge and a surprise attack from the rear (not ordered by Jackson, but initiated by allied Cherokee warriors), where the Creeks thought they had protection due to the river and raised ground.

From left: Inside the museum; interpretive panels lend context to the events that happened here; kayaking near the military park; white posts mark where the barricade stood

To better understand the battle, start at the park's newly renovated museum. A 22-minute film, "The Battle of Horseshoe Bend"; artifacts, such as cannonballs and arrowheads; exhibits, including a miniature model of the battlefield; and conversations from the area's indigenous people help tell the full story.

Enjoy the park's recreational offerings as well. The boat launch is particularly popular with kayakers, canoeists, and fishermen in jon boats, says Stacy Speas, lead park ranger.

"Despite the tragic events of March 27, 1814," she adds, "today's park feels serene and peaceful."

"National parks belong to all of us, so take a hike, enjoy the wildflowers, go birdwatching, or sit quietly in the park to reflect on what Horseshoe Bend means to you." —BARBARA TAGGER, SUPERINTENDENT OF HORSESHOE BEND NATIONAL MILITARY PARK

6 KEY STOPS

Visualize the action on a driving or walking tour of the park, which comprises six key stops. Most of the area on the tour is deemed commemorative and sacred, making a visit a solemn experience.

1 The Overlook offers a place to imagine what Jackson's army would have seen as it arrived. The overlook provides a view of the battleground and access to the 2.8-mile nature trail that winds through it.

2 Tour Stop #1 points out today's Bean's Island. During the battle, Lt. Jesse Bean and 40 riflemen stood ready to shoot any Red Stick attempting to swim to safety.

3 Tour Stop #2 displays white posts that mark where the Red Sticks erected a log barricade as high as eight feet across the neck of the peninsula. Nearby, the Jackson Trace marker, or D.A.R. Monument, indicates the end of Jackson's route "traced through the wilderness...during the Horseshoe Bend campaign." A cannon is positioned near where Jackson staged his cannons. The grave of Major Lemuel Montgomery, who was killed while storming the barricade and for whom Alabama's Montgomery County is named, lies in the vicinity.

4 Tour Stop #3 highlights where the Creeks built Tohopeka Village. Only a few informational panels mark the area now, but this was where the battle was won when an allied Cherokee band crossed the river and scrambled up the bank to attack the Red Sticks from behind.

5 Tour Stop #4 presents an overlook of the village.

6 Tour Stop #5 features a single information panel and an amazing point of view. Here, you can visualize what the Red Stick Creeks, including about 350 Creek women and children who were refugees from tribal towns already destroyed by U.S. troops, must have seen—thousands of American troops preparing to charge their defenses and forever end the way of life they had built.

LIVING HISTORY ON DISPLAY

A journey through the Muscle Shoals National Heritage Area reveals some of the country's greatest achievements and some of its worst tragedies. BY RICK HARMON

In 2009, Congress recognized and preserved north Alabama's customs, arts, achievements and history—much of it nurtured by the Tennessee River—by designating Alabama's first national heritage area. The Muscle Shoals National Heritage Area encapsulates the region's culture through nine sites, including some that document the lives and traditions of Native Americans, others that shaped American music, and others that remember influential people. Take a trip through the area and stop at them all.

Learn more about each of these sites by visiting nps.gov/places/muscle-shoals-national-heritage-area.htm.

FOUR NATIVE AMERICAN-RELATED SITES SHARE TRIUMPHS AND TRAGEDIES.

Oakville Indian Mounds Park and Museum

Two Indian mounds—the Oakville Ceremonial Mound and the Oakville Copena Mound—share ground with a museum that preserves artifacts from 10,000 B.C. and tells the story of the earliest people inhabiting the region. Looking around at what is now 180,000-acre Bankhead National Forest, with its caves, waterfalls and lush interior, it's easy to see why Native Americans hunted and lived here.

Florence Indian Mound Museum

Climb the steps of this 43-foot-high mound, following in the footsteps of the Native Americans who built it between 100-500 A.D. See relics, including exquisite jewelry, pottery, soapstone carvings, tools and rare spearheads—evidence of their past civilization.

Tuscumbia Landing and Waterloo Landing

In 1838, the U.S. military forced an estimated 16,000 Cherokee to give up their homeland and make an exodus west, now known as the Trail of Tears. Native Americans were transported to Tuscumbia Landing by train and then loaded into boats to be taken downstream to Waterloo Landing, where they awaited larger steamboats that would take them away.

THREE SITES MEMORIALIZE WHAT THE SHOALS IS BEST KNOWN FOR—MUSIC.

Alabama Music Hall of Fame

This hall of fame in Tuscumbia honors more than 1,200 Alabama musicians, from Hank Williams to Big Mama Thornton to Jason Isbell. See equipment Sam Phillips used at Sun Studio to record Elvis Presley, country group Alabama's tour bus, and a 15-foot jukebox and 17-foot guitar that both play Alabama artists' songs or allow you to record your own single.

W.C. Handy Birthplace, Museum and Library

Father of the Blues William Christopher Handy, who wrote the standards "Memphis Blues" and "Beale St. Blues," was born in this log cabin in Florence. Handy helped popularize the art form by being one of the first to write down blues music. Inside the cabin, a wealth of memorabilia, including his trumpet, his handwritten music and the piano on which he composed his classic "St. Louis Blues" is on display.

Red Bay Museum

Tammy Wynette, the First Lady of Country Music, claimed Red Bay as her hometown, thus the museum displays an extensive collection of items from the life of the woman who had 20 No. 1 country hits, including "Stand By Your Man" and "D-I-V-O-R-C-E."

TWO SITES ARE THE HOMES OF FAMOUS SHOALS RESIDENTS.

Ivy Green

Here in her Tuscumbia birth home, Helen Keller transformed, with the help of her teacher Anne Sullivan, from a deafblind girl unable to communicate into one of her generation's greatest women and one of the 20th century's greatest advocates for people with disabilities. See the living quarters she shared with her teacher and the famous water pump where the 7-year-old had her communications breakthrough with w-a-t-e-r.

Pond Spring, Home of General Joe Wheeler

Fighting Joe Wheeler rose to the rank of general in the Confederacy, then became a general in the U.S. Army after the Civil War. He also served in the U.S. Congress during the late 1800s, where he urged reconciliation between the North and the South. His home, Pond Spring, sits on 50 acres that also includes a large spring-fed pond, a circa 1818 log house, a circa 1830 Federal-style house, several outbuildings and gardens.

WHAT'S NEW

Be among the first to visit Alabama's newest or updated attractions.

BY RICK HARMON

THE WORLD GAMES, Birmingham

Thrill to 3,600 elite athletes from more than 100 countries competing in 34 sports in only 11 days. That's the nonstop excitement that awaits when The World Games, celebrating 40 years of competition this year, come to Birmingham July 7–17, 2022.

The competition won't just be among the participants of traditional athletics, such as softball, gymnastics, lacrosse or bowling. Those sports will fight for your attention with cutting-edge disciplines, including canoe polo (above), breaking, drone racing and fistball. Between sporting events, to be held at 14 venues throughout the metro area, including the new Protective Stadium, enjoy yourself in City Walk BHAM. This 10-block community space, located beneath interstate bridges, will feature stages with live music, food trucks, a dog park, a biergarten, a marketplace for retail goods and more.

THE LEGACY MUSEUM: FROM ENSLAVEMENT TO MASS INCARCERATION, Montgomery

Get an even broader understanding of slavery and its lasting impact at the Equal Justice Initiative's Legacy Museum: From Enslavement to Mass Incarceration, which has a new Montgomery location and four times the space it had previously.

It's not just the museum's space that is expanding, but also its theme. The exhibits cover a longer story of slavery, from the transatlantic voyages, illustrated in the exhibition image above, on which as many as 2 million Blacks died to the economic impact slavery had on many northern U.S. cities to the examination of over-incarceration in the 20th century. Great thought and attention to detail has gone into the immersive experience.

See a new art gallery, hear more first-person accounts and discover new stories of ordinary people doing extraordinary things. The museum was already so popular that EJI estimates as many as 50,000 people were turned away since its 2018 opening—a problem this expansion should help solve.

SMALL-TOWN TAKEOVER, Wetumpka

In their largest undertaking to date, HGTV stars Ben and Erin Napier decided to expand their commitment to build and restore small towns beyond their hometown of Laurel, Mississippi, and made over Wetumpka for the inaugural season of "Home Town Takeover." They chose this south-eastern Alabama town of roughly 8,000 residents from among 2,600 American contenders and transformed it. By the end of the series, they had remodeled 12 sites, including residences and businesses.

More than 6.5 million viewers watched the premiere. As the season progressed, the renovations and remodels, including what's known as the "Big Fish" House, where parts of the movie "Big Fish" were filmed; Coaches Corner, home to the state's longest bar; and Jerry's Barber Shop, which after the show became Sweet Home Books, were revealed. Whether you missed the series or loved it, you can see the Napiers' changes and the friendly, upbeat town that many viewers grew to love, in person.

THE ORION AMPHITHEATER, Huntsville

A state-of-the-art, 8,000-seat amphitheater being built by a company led by Mumford & Sons' Ben Lovett will open in Huntsville in spring 2022. Lovett, the CEO of global entertainment and hospitality company Venue Group, is attempting to use his love of music and experience performing on stages throughout the world to build the ultimate outdoor music venue. When he talks about the project, he considers the perspectives of the musicians as well as the fans. He thinks about details that go beyond sound and lights—the temperature of dressing rooms and how long it takes a concertgoer to get out of the parking lot, for example. A major fan of the Muscle Shoals music scene, Lovett plans to strengthen connections between the music of the Shoals and Huntsville, as well as make The Orion Amphitheater a culinary destination with a multitude of restaurants that can be experienced even when a show is not on the calendar.

OWA WATER PARK & GRAVITY ISLAND WATERSPORTS, Foley

Get your thrills and keep your cool at two new attractions at OWA, the Gulf Coast's largest amusement park. Located in Foley, the leisure and entertainment destination's 100,000-square-foot indoor water park is expected to open in spring 2022. Glide down giant waterslides inside the $70 million glass structure built to exile the heat. Alternatively, if you want all your splish-splash fun in the sun, head to the water park's outdoor extension, where you can try out the surf simulator or float in the wave pool.

The water park complements the existing outdoor Gravity Island Watersports, which opened in late summer last year. Here, you can wake up your vacation by wakeboarding, wakeskating, tubing or water skiing using a 700-foot overhead cable that pulls riders across the 14-acre lake at the center of OWA's amusement park. Gravity Island requires reservations and has a separate admission price from the amusement park.

FREEDOM RIDES MUSEUM, Montgomery

Climb onto a vintage Greyhound bus for a journey back in time to better understand racism and the courage of those who dared to defy it. The Freedom Rides Museum in Montgomery, which honors the Black and white Freedom Riders who were attacked at the city's Greyhound Station while attempting to integrate interstate bus travel, has added a vintage bus as a permanent exhibit that also functions as a mobile exhibit.

The restored Greyhound bus is similar to those that were used by the Congress of Racial Equality members who left Washington, D.C. on May 4, 1961, to end segregated bus travel in the South. It is an extension of the museum's exhibits, featuring an interactive soundscape, interpretive banners and display of vintage suitcases.

AFRICATOWN HERITAGE HOUSE, Mobile

When divers in the Mobile River found the Clotilda, the last slave ship to smuggle African captives to America in 1860—more than 50 years after the importation of enslaved humans was outlawed—they didn't just find a historic artifact: they brought to light the incredible story of Black slaves who formed their own Alabama settlement, Africatown. Learn about their courageous struggle at Africatown Heritage House, a $1.3 million, 5,000-square-foot museum being opened in 2022. It includes artifacts from the Clotilda, but the museum's main purpose is to tell the inspiring story of those who made the journey, endured its hardships and the greater hardships of slavery, and not only survived but also developed their own community in Alabama.

CONECUH SAUSAGE GIFT SHOP, Evergreen

Give your taste buds a vacation by stopping at the recently opened Conecuh Sausage gift shop. The original, 800-square-foot location opened in 1947 and has been well known ever since for making some of the South's most beloved sausages. This new store, at I-65 Exit 96 in Evergreen, covers 7,000 square feet. Although it offers hats, T-shirts, grilling aprons and other souvenirs, the gift shop's real draw is the chance to buy six styles of Conecuh Sausage, including the hard-to-find Cracked Black Pepper variety. The store also offers smoked turkeys and hams, and everything from bacon to hot dogs. While there, snap selfies by a life-size pig, or walk your dog at the fenced-in dog park. Conecuh Sausage is open Monday through Saturday.

AT HOME ON THE ROAD

The secret is out. RVers are flocking to Alabama, where campers can find everything from primitive sites to resort-like experiences. Plus, the variety of geography and attractions presents nearly unlimited things to do while at home on the road. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

In 2020 when air travel slowed and governments at the national and local levels recommended isolation, interest in RVing revved. Sales of RVs, camper vans, pop-ups and other "homes" people could carry around like a turtle does its shell accelerated. Nearly two years later, with the brakes on travel largely lifted domestically, RVing is still experiencing a boom. Advanced bookings at campsites are up, and the National Association of RV Parks and Campgrounds estimated that more than 53,000 new RV sites would be built across the country last year. It helps, too, that the Great American Outdoors Act was passed in 2020, promising huge investments in public lands, including updates and additions perfect for today's recreational vehicles.

While plans for how Alabama specifically will be impacted by the act have not yet been announced, the state is well poised to welcome more RVers. Its geography—with forested mountains in the north and enviable beaches on the southern coast—presents a slate of experiences for travelers bringing their accommodations with them. Twenty-one state parks, encompassing nearly 48,000 acres of public waters and lands, dot the landscape from north to south and east to west. Plus, dozens of private parks cater to RVers seeking more of a "glamping" experience.

"We're excited about the funding that the Great American Outdoors Act proposes for improving the campsites that will bring in new campers," says Bobby Cornwell, executive director of Camp in Alabama/Alabama RV Parks & Campgrounds Association. "It's going to offer up more sites than ever before and will improve the facilities. It's going to make the whole industry grow."

Alabama already was seeing growth in RV camping and has been taking steps to welcome that growth. According to Jerry Weisenfeld, advertising and marketing manager for Alabama State Parks, "Some recent projects we've undertaken to accommodate RVers include widening the parking pads for bigger RVs, paving and leveling parking pads to make it more comfortable for campers, upgrading power connections from 30 amp to 50 amp throughout most parks, and making the roads in our parks easier to navigate."

The changes are not lost on RV campers. Cornwell notes that "Alabama is really hot right now, especially around Mobile and Foley. A lot of parks are being sold and new parks are being developed along I-10 along the Gulf Coast." He adds that "occupancy is up 50 to 75% over 2019 numbers."

It's easy to understand why Alabama is evolving into an RV hotspot. For one thing, agree Weisenfeld and Cornwell, the private and public camping spots are not overcrowded. Campers can find space wherever they want to be. Secondly, "The state offers something for everyone," says Cornwell. "You've got nature, attractions. The climate is perfect and you've got a variety of outdoor recreation: hiking, lakes, fishing, golfing—it's all perfect for RVers wanting to visit year-round."

So this year, head south and find plenty of reasons to pull in and hook up within Alabama.

Teeing Off ON THE RTJ TRAIL

With a collection of 468 holes on 11 sites across Alabama, the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail is like no other golfing venue. The courses that make up the Trail take advantage of Alabama's natural topography, and each one offers genuine championship layouts that stand the test of time. Novice to seasoned players find challenges...and rewards.

Capitol Hill

Prattville

The magnitude of this facility's 1,500 acres allows each of the 18-hole championship courses overlooking the Alabama River to be drastically different from the others. The Legislator offers a traditional course, while the Senator presents a Scottish-links style. Meanwhile, the Judge was named one of the 10 public courses in America worthy of hosting the U.S. Open by Golf. Capitol Hill also features an innovative 360-degree driving range.

Cambrian Ridge

Greenville

Four, nine-hole courses—Canyon, Loblolly, Sherling and Short—promise variety, from an Augusta-like landscape to a dramatic climb to a final green. To keep all 36 jaw-dropping holes sharp and playable, Cambrian Ridge has undergone a total renovation of the original 27 championship holes, with many of them having been redesigned to open up views of Sherling Lake. Additionally, the greens have been remade to accommodate the higher greens speeds associated with the installation of Ultradwarf Bermuda grass.

Grand National

Auburn/Opelika

Robert Trent Jones Sr. is on record saying that Grand National, voted the No. 1 public golf facility in America by readers of Golf World, was the single greatest natural site for golf he had ever seen. Today, 32 of the 54 holes of what has been developed into the Links, Lake and Short courses drape along Lake Saugahatchee's filigreed shores. Newly renovated, the Links features new tees, bunkers and TifEagle Ultradwarf greens. Grand National will host the Couples Classic in fall 2022.

Hampton Cove

Huntsville

This northern gateway to the Trail is a 54-hole facility with terrain that radically changes from one side of the property to the other. On the picturesque and highly playable Highlands Course, long, waving grasses frame rolling terrain and beautiful bentgrass greens. The River Course is the only Robert Trent Jones layout in the world designed without a single bunker. Water is in play here and on the Short Course, where alternating tees allow golfers to hit every club in their bag.

Highland Oaks

Dothan

Although three, nine-hole championship courses, plus the nine-hole Short Course, make up this facility, it's the Highlands/Magnolia combination that Golf Digest named as one of the nation's Great Value courses. That 18 includes Magnolia's 416-yard fifth, where a split-level fairway offers an option off the tee. Marshwood's behemoth par-5 sixth stretches 701 yards from the tops. The redressing of the championship nines with TifEagle Ultradwarf greens was completed in 2020, as was the redesign of the practice area. The Mackenzie Tour Q-School will be held in March 2022, and the Korn Ferry 2nd Stage Q-School is scheduled for fall 2022.

The Lakewood Club

Point Clear

Here, the Dogwood and Azalea courses pair wonderfully with the Grand Hotel Golf Resort & Spa, so much so that Golf regularly includes The Lakewood Club in its list of "Best Golf Resorts in America." The Dogwood Course, which hosted the 2021 USGA Women's Senior Amateur, was completely renovated in 2018, while the Azalea Course was renovated and reopened in November 2019. The new designs feature TifEagle Ultradwarf greens that lend themselves to superb year-round conditions. The Experience practice facility offers an innovative social setting to work on all aspects of your game.

IF YOU LOVE GOLF, THIS RTJ TRAIL SHOULD BE ON YOUR BUCKET LIST.

Magnolia Grove

Mobile

Thanks to extensive upgrades at both championship courses, the Crossings and the Falls, golfers find more player-friendly qualities without compromising the integrity of Robert Trent Jones' original design. The topography at Magnolia Grove features creeks, marshland and lakes, with each of the 54 holes carved through indigenous hardwood and pine. The Crossings carries a coastal look, supported by new water features and crushed oyster shell waste areas. The Falls is the only par-71 course on the Trail, and the Short Course includes several newly designed greens.

Oxmoor Valley

Birmingham

This 54-hole facility was built on former mining land and owes its challenging elevation changes to its location amid the southernmost peaks and valleys of the Appalachians. The Ridge is known to be incredibly photogenic. Neighboring Valley was renovated last year and features new tees, bunkers and TifEagle greens. For those who have played the Valley in the past, new surprises await on a few holes, including the previously notorious 18th. The Short Course is listed by Golf Digest's "Places to Play" as one of the nation's Great Value public courses.

Ross Bridge

Hoover

Carved into the rolling terrain of Shannon Valley, the scope of this property amazes even the most-traveled golfer. The 18-hole course meanders through native landscape and around the 259-room Renaissance Birmingham Ross Bridge Golf Resort & Spa. It is the fifth-longest course in the world but offers multiple tees for golfers of all levels.

Silver Lakes

Anniston/Gadsden

Surrounded by Appalachian foothills and Lee's Lake, the complex features the most unique and aptly named courses on the Trail—Heartbreaker, Backbreaker, Mindbreaker and Short—and all 36 greens boast lightning-quick Champion Ultradwarf putting surfaces. Look forward to scenic variety, as the holes are situated among forests, wetlands, grasslands and dramatic elevation changes.

The Shoals

Muscle Shoals

Two 18-hole championship courses lie between the Wheeler and Wilson dams on the Tennessee River. The Fighting Joe was the first Trail course to break 8,000 yards, and it can play long (really long, if you play the wrong set of tees), but this course is good, straightforward golf. The 18th green overlooking Wilson Lake will distract you with its beauty, if not its treachery. Also 8,000 yards, the Schoolmaster is a shotmaker's course with narrower fairways and demanding approaches to well-protected bentgrass greens. It's hard to beat the beauty that the 18th holds on the high bluffs over the river, but the waterfall guarding the 2nd green sure comes close.

13 More Courses to Play

Expand your game by checking out these other great golf courses.

FarmLinks at Pursell Farms, *Sylacauga
This family-farm golf resort and its 7,444-yard, Hurdzan Fry-designed course, chosen by Golfweek as the state's No. 1 all-access golf course, is often used by the golf industry to test new products.

Kiva Dunes, *Gulf Shores
Local golfers claim this course as the best in the state. The wind often keeps things interesting.

TimberCreek Golf Club, *Daphne
Carved from a forest of dogwoods, magnolias and pines, this 27-hole course designed by Earl Stone is known for its rolling fairways and elevation changes.

Bent Brook Golf Course, *Bessemer
Designed by Ward Northrup, each of these three nine-hole designs carries unique features of its own.

Peninsula Golf & Racquet Club, *Gulf Shores
More than 7,000 yards compose this 27-hole championship course, designed by Earl Stone and abutting the Bon Secour National Wildlife Refuge.

Craft Farms, *Gulf Shores
Enjoy 36 holes on two courses, Cotton Creek and Cypress Bend. They are the only two courses designed by Arnold Palmer in the state.

Joe Wheeler State Park Golf Course, *Rogersville
Earl Stone designed this 18-holer that rolls across gentle hills, sidles up to a river and passes through a wildlife sanctuary.

Goose Pond Colony, *Scottsboro
This golf resort comprises two 18-holers: The Lake Course and The Plantation Course, which now features Mini-Verde greens.

Limestone Springs Golf Club, *Oneonta
Dramatic elevations and scenic views define this Jerry Pate-designed course nestled into the Appalachian Mountains.

Twin Bridges, *Gadsden
Players of all levels enjoy the Bermuda fairways, bentgrass greens and bunkers along the Coosa River.

Ol' Colony Golf Course, *Tuscaloosa
Test your golf mettle on this Jerry Pate-designed municipal course. Water throughout adds to the challenge—and fun.

Ballantrae Golf Club, *Pelham
Golfers appreciate the fast, friendly play of these 18 holes designed by architect Bob Cupp.

Gunter's Landing, *Guntersville
The nearly 6,900 yards of this 18-hole championship course challenge even seasoned players.

GULF COAST

With sun-kissed strands, rolling waves and charming towns, Baldwin County welcomes visitors seeking the best in rest and relaxation.

The Gulf of Mexico is the No. 1 reason vacationers choose Alabama's Gulf Coast. Its warm turquoise waters and sugar-like sands provide a picture-perfect backdrop for gorgeous photos and family fun. Swim, boat, parasail, scuba dive and more in these nearly translucent waters. Walk the beaches, dine al fresco on freshly caught seafood or fish from a pier. Shop charming boutiques and get acquainted with local and national history. Pushing slightly inland, the Gulf's saltwater meets the Mobile and Tensaw rivers to form an amazing estuary and the southern tip of what's been called America's Amazon. The region promises something for all kinds of adventurers. It's all here, basking in the sun and waiting for you to come on down.

A COASTAL CORNUCOPIA

Discover more ways to make memories on Alabama's Gulf Coast. BY LAURA MCGILL

3 SUNSETS NOT TO MISS

Bid farewell to the day in Alabama Gulf Coast style with a stunning sunset.

1 Bring your beach towel and enjoy the postcard-worthy view from Dauphin Island Public Beach, the sunset capital of Alabama.

2 On the Eastern Shore, follow your spirit to the edge of Mobile Bay for a westward gaze from Daphne Bayfront Park.

3 Travel to the western end of Fort Morgan Road and park past the ferry, near the boat launch. Walk to the beach and watch the sun dip into the water between Mobile Bay and the Gulf of Mexico.

BY LAND & WATER

Alabama's Coastal Connection Scenic Byway: Gain an overview of all the Gulf Coast offers on this route that travels between Grand Bay in the west, the Orange Beach marinas to the east and Spanish Fort to the north.

Tensaw Parkway: Originating at its southern end in Mobile and passing along state highways 225 and 59 through Spanish Fort—home to Historic Blakeley State Park, where the last major battle of the Civil War was fought—and on to Stockton and Fort Mims, a significant site in the Creek War, this drive parallels the Mobile-Tensaw River Delta.

Perdido River Hiking Trail: Closely following the canoe trail, this 17.9-mile hike is rated easy to moderate. Hikers, like canoeists, can use six shelters and three parking areas. Advance shelter reservations are required.

WHAT IS THAT? TUCKED IN THE WOODS NEAR ELBERTA AND JOSEPHINE STANDS A CURIOUS SIGHT: BAMAHENGE. ARTIST MARK CLINE BUILT THIS FIBERGLASS REPLICA OF STONEHENGE, AND IT HAS BEEN TURNING HEADS EVER SINCE.

MOBILE'S SLUGGER. In January of 2021, Mobile and the nation bid farewell to baseball legend and native son Hammerin' Hank Aaron. Witness his story at the Hank Aaron Childhood Home and Museum, next to his namesake stadium.

BE A FOODIE. The secret is out about Fairhope's charms after Jason Segel of "How I Met Your Mother" fame bragged about the food scene. Take The Fairhope Foodie tour and stop and taste the goodies at four eateries.

BAYOU LA BATRE

Home to many a shrimping boat and fishing vessel, this town is known as the Seafood Capital of Alabama. @bradboland #SweetHomeAlabama #AlabamaTravel

UNDERWATER VIEWS

The aquarium at Dauphin Island Sea Lab, home to a 7,000-gallon stingray touch pool and more than 100 fascinating species on display, is now Alabama's official state aquarium.

IT'S A DATE!

Revel at America's oldest Mardi Gras. Witness the colorful spectacle of a quarter million azaleas in bloom. Savor freshly caught seafood from the Alabama Gulf. Treat your ears to some of the country's best music at a beautiful beach setting or discover arts in a town that inspires creativity.

FEB. 11–MARCH 1

Mardi Gras

The country's oldest Mardi Gras celebration is a family-friendly event full of floats, music and MoonPies. Line up along downtown streets at least 30 minutes before the parade's start time for optimal viewing. Since the parade covers multiple routes, you might see it more than once, depending on your location. Mobile, mobile.org/events/mardi-gras

MARCH 2–31

Azalea Bloom Out

Azaleas in bloom are beautiful, especially when more than 250,000 of them burst into color throughout Bellingrath Gardens' 65 acres. The exact dates of the Bloom Out depend on the weather, so check the website to be certain. Theodore, 251-973-2217, bellingrath.org

48 Hours in Beach Towns

Where Alabama's white-sand beaches embrace the Gulf of Mexico, the towns of Gulf Shores, Orange Beach and Foley provide nonstop fun and laid-back charm. BY LAURA MCGILL

Friday

AFTERNOON Begin your adventures in Foley, where options abound for getting out and about just a few miles north of the beach. If you're hungry upon arrival, grab a late lunch at OWA, an entertainment, dining, shopping and amusement park complex. Try Lucy's Retired Surfers Bar & Restaurant for juicy burgers and coastal-inspired cuisine or Groovy Goat for made-from-scratch salads, sandwiches and nachos. Explore the rest of Downtown OWA, then pay admission to The Park at OWA to ride kid-friendly amusements or pump your adrenaline on white-knuckle, hold-on-tight favorites, including Wave Rider, Twister and Rollin' Thunder, OWA's iconic roller coaster. If you would prefer a quieter afternoon, visit Graham Creek Nature Preserve, which is open until dusk. In the summer months, that means you'll have plenty of daylight to hike among nearly 500 acres of peaceful habitats.

EVENING If you have a crew to feed, stick around OWA and enjoy dinner at Paula Deen's Family Kitchen. Follow that with a stroll to the Hershey's Ice Cream Parlor. For a couple's meal, trade OWA for Foley's downtown and Local and Company, an upscale American-fare restaurant in a masterfully restored armory that dates back to 1934. The seafood-centric choices are plentiful, as are the handcrafted pizza selections.

Saturday

MORNING Start your day in Gulf Shores with sunrise on the beach; getting up early has never been so worthwhile. Then see what the other early birds (human or feathered) are up to with a morning walk along the nature trails and boardwalks at Gulf State Park. Here, the 28-mile Hugh S. Branyon Backcountry Trail system passes through nine unique ecosystems. The ADA-accessible trails can be explored by foot, bike, wheelchair or Segway tour. The Segways are located at Lake Shelby, where the dog park has been upgraded with new fencing and shade. Take advantage of a free bike share program by downloading the Bloom Bike Share App and scanning a code at one of 50 bike stations dotting the park. Refuel at Sunliner Diner, where breakfast is served all day, or at Hazel's Nook, home to a well-known breakfast and lunch buffet.

AFTERNOON It is the beach, after all, so plan for some time on the strands and in the turquoise Gulf of Mexico. With a picnic area, restrooms and showers, and a 200-foot-long mat to allow everyone, including those in wheelchairs or with mobility issues, access to the famous white-sand beach, the Gulf Place public beach access in Gulf Shores is ideal for families. Relax with a beach towel, sunscreen and a good book. Or, go full energy with parasailing, a personal watercraft rental or diving. For a view from the water, book a dolphin cruise.

From left: Bike the Hugh S. Branyon Backcountry Trail to conveniently and quickly see a lot of Gulf State Park; the white sands and warm waters feel good between your toes; ride The Wharf's Ferris wheel and enjoy the night lights of Orange Beach; plan ahead to take advantage of the special Animal Encounters at Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo

EVENING Celebrate the abundance of fresh, local seafood by eating it. Two of the top casual eateries are situated right on the sands. Flora-Bama Yacht Club in Orange Beach blackens, fries or sautèes its fish and shrimp, while Sea-N-Suds in Gulf Shores loves to bake stuffed crab. After dinner, stop by The Wharf, a shopping, dining and entertainment complex, for family fun at Civil Axe Throwing, Cool Shots Selfie Museum or on the Ferris wheel.

SHOP 'TIL YOU DROP

Throughout the region, shoppers can fill their bags. Find amazing deals at Tanger Outlets or unique crafts, such as those at Clara's Loom, both in Foley. The Wharf in Orange Beach presents a bevy of goods ideal for the beach.

Use the search bar at Alabama.Travel to learn more about Foley, Gulf Shores or Orange Beach.

Sunday

MORNING Ease into the day with breakfast at Kitty's Kafe, OSO Early or BuzzCatz Coffee & Sweets. Each takes Southern breakfast seriously, but OSO Early stands out for its delicious beignets, Kitty's Kafe for its made-to-order crab cake benedict and BuzzCatz for its fresh-baked pastries served with locally roasted coffee.

AFTERNOON Don't say goodbye without a visit to the Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo. The 25-acre complex is home to 118 species, 22 of which are critically endangered, endangered, vulnerable or near threatened. Another unique-to-the-coast outing would be to Gulf State Park Pier. Drop a fishing line here to see what's biting. Rod and reel are available to rent, and fishing licenses can be obtained at outdooralabama.com.

Located in the heart of the Alabama Gulf Coast, Turquoise Place and The Beach Club Resort & Spa offer all the amenities and services families will appreciate.

48 Hours in Mobile

While the city dates to 1702 and still revels in its centuries-old French influences, it is dotted with new, up-and-coming attractions and hot spots—all of which make Mobile the perfect past-meets-present weekend getaway. BY KATE BURKE

Friday

EARLY AFTERNOON Stretch your legs on an exploration of downtown, notably on and around Dauphin Street. Restaurants and eclectic, artsy shops line this commercial thoroughfare, which French settlers named for the heir apparent of Louis XIV in 1711. Widen your walk to include Colonial Fort Condé, a four-fifths-scaled replica of one the French built in 1723. Ruins from the original may be viewed in Mardi Gras Park, located near the intersection of Church and S. Royal streets. Save an hour or so to browse the Mobile Carnival Museum, where one of France's top exports is honored—Mardi Gras! Memorabilia, including robes, masks, crowns and more related to the country's oldest Mardi Gras celebration, are displayed.

NOT YOUR AVERAGE EGGS

SOCU chef/owner Erica Barrett told GoodGritmag.com that she wants diners to see Mobile's seafood culture because it's not solely a Southern city. "Southern food is already great by itself, but it's cool to show it can be elevated and sophisticated," she says. As evidence, check out her fried lobster deviled eggs above.

EVENING Come dinnertime, toast your weekend kick-off with an aerial view of the city at Dauphin's. This fine-dining restaurant on the 34th floor of the Trustmark Building features upscale cuisine and breathtaking views of Mobile and Mobile Bay. All of the menu items are delicious, but Gumbo Z'herb was the one that made the list of 100 Dishes to Try in Alabama.

Saturday

MORNING Rise and fly at Flight Works Alabama, a unique, state-of-the-art aerospace exhibition and education center. At the heart of the center lies the Airbus Foundation's Discovery Space, which provides interactive experiences for kids and adults, such as flying a virtual Airbus A320, installing a payload on the International Space Station and navigating a drone through an obstacle course. You also have the opportunity to tour the Airbus320 Final Assembly Line.

NOON Among the historic antebellum homes lining the streets of the Historic Oakleigh District are some treasured eateries. Try Callaghan's Irish Social Club, a local-favorite burger spot where biweekly specials feature mouthwatering burgers made of Alabama's own Conecuh sausage. The Hummingbird Way Oyster Bar, owned by Jim Smith of "Top Chef" fame, serves up delicious, Instagram-worthy food, ranging from sky-high, fluffy biscuits to colorful seasonal cocktails. As the name suggests, oysters are a must-try here.

"You can easily spend 2-3 hours touring the [USS Alabama] battleship and going through all three self-guided tours." —BRANDON K, TRIPADVISOR

Sunday

MORNING No Southern weekend is complete without something utterly indulgent for breakfast. Try decadent and syrup-laden beignets at Mo'Bay Beignet Co. You can even take home some mix to make at home.

AFTERNOON Venture just north of downtown Mobile to Africatown, home to the new Heritage House. At the heart of the recently opened museum's mission are the people who founded Africatown and the story of their coming to Mobile aboard the Clotilda, the last slave ship to enter the United States. Exhibits at the museum have been curated to share the harrowing ocean journey from Africa and to honor the 100-plus West Africans who were forced to board the ship. Find out more about Heritage House on page 45.

Use the search bar at Alabama.Travel to learn more about Mobile.

AFTERNOON If you've reached the point where you can't eat another bite—which isn't hard to do in Mobile—walk the gangway of "The Mighty A" in Mobile Bay. Tour the USS Alabama, a veteran battleship from WWII. It, along with the USS Drum submarine, an aircraft pavilion, tanks, artillery and more, is found at Battleship Memorial Park.

EVENING Mobile is a rising star in the culinary world, and so is native chef Erica Barrett. She has opened SOCU Southern Kitchen and Oyster Bar, located on Dauphin Street, and has earned a lot of love in the past year for being a Black woman in a white male-dominated industry and for tantalizing palates with what she calls "Mobilian food, a blend of Southern and seafood." One of her most popular dishes is Oceans 11, a mix of salmon, shrimp and scallops topped with crawfish gravy.

SOUTH

Delight in a perfect blend of civil rights legacies, literary heritage and amazing bass fishing.

Alongside the inspiring stories of nonviolent protests and bus boycotts that led to national reform, travelers find the equally marvelous tales of the heroic Tuskegee Airmen and brilliant scientist George Washington Carver. Montgomery, the state's capital city, lies at the heart of the modern Civil Rights Movement and claims more U.S. Civil Rights Trail sites than any other city. Here, and in the region's other cities and towns, learn about the lives of famous literary talents: Harper Lee, Truman Capote, and Zelda and Scott Fitzgerald. Singer-songwriter Hank Williams Sr. also has his roots in this region, and multiple attractions celebrate his life. Finally, anglers will want to throw a line in any of the lakes and rivers that comprise the Alabama Bass Trail to lure trophy-winning bass. Those lunkers know how to make a visit to South Alabama memorable.

A SOUTHERN SMORGASBORD

Deepen your connections to Alabama's South region with these attractions and adventures. BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

3 REASONS TO VISIT THE BLACK BELT

In the past, this area was overlooked because it was largely farmland; people drove through it barely aware of what was growing in the dark, fertile soil, which gives the region its name. Crops for sure, but now everyone knows, culture too.

1 Gee's Bend quilts are rooted in six generations of textile artists who have passed down the folk art form and made it internationally famous. Gee's Bend Quilting Collective is open by appointment.

2 If you miss the quilts at the collective, you might get lucky at Black Belt Treasures Cultural Arts Center. Here, the works of more than 450 Black Belt artists are represented and for sale.

3 Alabama Black Belt Adventures Association has assembled nine themed food trails, each with its own brochure, to showcase the bounty of tasty eats in the region. One option would be to follow Baker's Confections Are Sweet Perfection to get acquainted with the foods in Sumter, Greene and Hale counties.

MORE THAN PEANUTS. Learn about the contributions of George Washington Carver that went well beyond peanuts. Artifacts representing his life and legacy are on display at the G.W. Carver Interpretive Museum in Dothan.

GET WET IN PHENIX CITY. Thanks to the Chattahoochee River that runs through it, this city in East Alabama welcomes whitewater enthusiasts wanting to tackle Class II to Class V rapids. The whitewater park presents options for rafting, kayaking, river surfing and paddleboarding. Plenty of outfitters are available to share advice or get you started.

DINING GUIDE

Culinary excellence and Auburn are about to become synonymous later this year when Auburn University debuts its new multidisciplinary, world-class culinary school. It will complement Auburn's already burgeoning food scene. These three restaurants have contributed to its growth.

ACRE. Four-time James Beard Award semifinalist and "Iron Chef" Showdown winner David Bancroft shares his farm-to-table fare for lunch and dinner. His menus change with the seasons, but you can always expect fresh seafood, high-quality meats and sides made from what is growing locally.

LUCY'S. Although this hip eatery serves modern American dishes for dinner and excellent libations, its brunch generates long lines. Brioche French Toast and Chicken and Waffle Bennie top the must-try list.

THE HOUND. To get an idea of what this family-owned joint is all about, simply read its tagline: "Bacon & Bourbon." The burgers are hearty, as are the entrées—meatloaf, shrimp and grits, Berkshire pork chop, to name a few.

Sunflowers Galore!

COTTON, YES. PEANUTS, YES. BUT SUNFLOWERS IN ALABAMA, WHO KNEW? STOP BY THE SUNFLOWER FIELD NEAR AUTAUGAVILLE TO SNIP YOUR OWN OR SIMPLY WALK AMONG THE YELLOW FLOWERS AND TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS. THE FIELDS GENERALLY BLOOM AND OPEN IN JULY.

IT'S A DATE!

Relive one of the seminal moments in America's civil rights history. Come to the state's literary capital to celebrate the works of its most-famous author or to Alabama's capital city to remember history. Boogie in Waverly or crack open goober peas at the world's largest peanut festival.

THROUGHOUT 2022

Alabama Shakespeare Festival Season 50

Alabama Shakespeare Festival celebrates its 50th season, having grown from a school auditorium in Anniston into one of the biggest Shakespeare theaters in the country in a $21.5 million, state-of-the-art-theater complex. Montgomery, 334-271-5353, asf.net

Old 280 Boogie

Waverly threw a celebration more than 20 years ago when officials decided not to run State Highway 280 through the town. That celebration continues with great music in one of Alabama's coolest settings. Waverly, 334-219-7733, standarddeluxe.com

NOV. 4–13

National Peanut Festival

Started in 1938 as a three-day event at which George Washington Carver was the guest speaker, the National Peanut Festival is now a 10-day event, noted as the largest peanut festival in the world and one of Alabama's largest state fairs. Families enjoy midway rides, livestock shows and, of course, lots of peanuts. Dothan, 334-793-4323, nationalpeanutfestival.com

48 Hours in Montgomery

With more sites on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail than any other city in the country, Montgomery offers an immersion into the history of American civil rights. Plus, it holds some other pretty cool treasures, too. BY RICK HARMON

Friday

EARLY AFTERNOON Begin by taking a walk through the centuries, all within a few blocks in downtown. It's not possible to see everything in one afternoon, so you'll have to pick and choose. Among the highlights, see the Alabama Capitol and the Dexter Avenue King Memorial Baptist Church, from where Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. led the Montgomery Bus Boycott. Within easy walking distance lie the First White House of the Confederacy, where president of the Confederacy Jefferson Davis and his family lived, the Rosa Parks Museum, the Freedom Rides Museum and the thought-provoking Civil Rights Memorial designed by Maya Lin, the artist responsible for Washington, D.C.'s Vietnam Memorial. More recent additions to the civil rights landscape include the new Montgomery Interpretive Center, the third and final part of the Selma to Montgomery National Historic Trail. The center opened on the Alabama State University campus near the ASU Stadium last year. This year, Mt. Zion A.M.E Zion Church, where King was elected to head the Montgomery Bus Boycott, will restore a 19th-century building and open a new museum focused on the role Christianity and the church played in the Civil Rights Movement.

EVENING After a busy afternoon, relax over a casual dinner at El Rey Burrito Lounge. Order the Ancho BBQ and Jicama Salad, listed as one of the 100 Dishes to Eat in Alabama, or a spicy roasted sweet potato taco with goat cheese. Both pair deliciously with this cutting-edge Mexican restaurant's Nice Margarita, the menu name for its top-shelf marg. Afterward, walk next door to take in whatever is showing at the Capri Theatre. It opened as the Clover Theatre in 1941 and continues to screen independent films and classics.

CAPITOL AFFAIRS

Alabama's capitol building has seen a lot of history. It was where the Confederacy was created, where Jefferson Davis was sworn in as its president and where Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. delivered his famous "How Long? Not Long" speech after the Selma to Montgomery March.

Almost one-tenth of the more than 100 sites on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail are located in Alabama's capital city.

Saturday

MORNING Since Food & Wine Magazine once named the coffee at Prevail Union the best in the state, it's worth checking out. Plus, the coffee shop is inside the Kress Building, a renovated 1920s-era building that has become another Montgomery site dedicated to educating visitors about past racial inequality. Next, see the painfully moving National Memorial for Peace and Justice, with its hundreds of hanging, 6-foot-long, steel monuments bearing the names of Black people who were lynched between 1877 and 1950. It complements a visit to the Equal Justice Initiative's new, greatly expanded Legacy Museum: From Enslavement to Mass Incarceration, which examines the residual effect slavery has on modern society. For more on this expanded attraction and a new addition to the Freedom Rides Museum, turn to page 45.

NOON Lunch at either Chris' Hot Dogs, which for more than 100 years has been serving hot dogs covered in its secret chili sauce to customers ranging from Hank Williams to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, or Derk's Filet & Vine. At this meat-and-three, you choose from at least seven meats and 12 sides.

AFTERNOON Visit the Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts, where the collection features works from Mary Cassatt, Edward Hopper and John Singer Sargent. Outside, stroll through the MMFA's $5 million sculpture garden. Elsewhere, The Scott & Zelda Fitzgerald Museum features first editions, paintings and mementos from the most famous couple of the Jazz Age. Fans can even rent on Airbnb an apartment above the museum in the house where the couple once lived. Meanwhile, music enthusiasts enjoy the Hank Williams Museum, a repository of the country legend's hit records, stage outfits and the 1952 baby-blue Cadillac in which he died.

EVENING Eat elegantly at the James Beard Foundation-recognized Vintage Year. The menu changes with the seasons, but it never disappoints. It's the kind of swanky stop that serves seafood risotto made with ingredients procured from the Gulf Coast or beef cheeks with sweet potato mash.

To eat casually, but magnificently, choose Brenda's Bar-B-Q Pit. Started in 1942, the restaurant was a source of comfort (and comfort food) for the city's famed Civil Rights Movement. It is strictly pick-up and has no tables but does have some of the best barbecue in the state.

You probably don't want to rush your dinner, but you also don't want to miss a performance at the Alabama Shakespeare Festival. This year marks the 50th season for this acclaimed theater.

Sunday

MORNING Savor a leisurely brunch at the quintessentially Southern Cahawba House. Bite into biscuits, beignets or bacon, and so much more.

AFTERNOON Walk off some of that Southern comfort food at Blount Cultural Park, where you can feed ducks, stroll along trails or poke around the Shakespeare Gardens, featuring plants and flowers from Shakespeare's plays.

CENTRAL

As host to this year's World Games, Birmingham is deservedly in the spotlight and provides a welcoming gateway to exploring the rest of Alabama's middle region.

With three key cities—Birmingham, Tuscaloosa and Anniston—and a host of small towns and hamlets, this region stands out for its big-city lights and small-town charms. It echoes with voices from the Civil Rights Movement and cheers for the University of Alabama. It holds the state's highest point, Cheaha Mountain, where recreation trails and quiet overlooks of the surrounding Talladega National Forest present spots for reflection. And it entices appetites with the culinary talents of James Beard Award-winning chefs and restaurants concentrated here. When you feel the need for speed, head to the Talladega Superspeedway for racing excitement or to the Barber Motorsports Museum to browse a jaw-dropping collection of motorcycles and Lotus race cars. It's all here in Alabama's heartland.

CENTRAL TREASURES

Get acquainted with some of the gems that make Alabama's heartland sparkle.

BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

LOVING LAKE LIFE

Alabama is blessed with amazing lakes, but Lake Martin (this page) is the one that stood out in a recent Yahoo ranking of the most beautiful lakes to visit in the United States. It was number 11 in the list of 15 and was noted for its size—44,000 acres—and 750 miles of forested shoreline. Of course, visitors go boating and fishing, but they also RV camp, ride horses and hike. Lake Martin spans three counties and is near Alexander City and Dadeville. It was created when Martin Dam was constructed on the Tallapoosa River.

More Room to Roam

Already a popular spot for outdoor recreation of all kinds—hiking, horseback riding, camping, mountain biking, swimming, fishing, geocaching, cable wakeboarding and more—Oak Mountain State Park near Pelham is gaining ground, literally. The newly acquired acreage brings the park's total to more than 11,000 acres and includes the popular King's Chair and Belcher Tract, often used by hikers.

WEEKDAYS BETWEEN MAY AND LABOR DAY are reportedly the best days to pull into Peach Park in Clanton. Weekends mean longer lines and more people crowding the bakery, gardens and playground at the 7-acre stop that specializes in Alabamians' favorite fuzzy fruit. Peach Park sells more than 70 varieties, ensuring ample peaches from late spring through early fall. It also sells plenty of its renowned peach ice cream as well as fried pies, listed among 100 Dishes to Eat in Alabama. Record your pit stop (pun intended) with a selfie beside the giant peach sculpture.

WHO NEEDS WILLIAMSBURG?

When you've got American Village (this page) in Montevallo, you've got a glimpse into U.S. history from the time of its founding fathers. Tour Washington Hall, inspired by George Washington's Mount Vernon, and venture into a full-sized replica of the Oval Office. Don't skip the attraction's latest addition: the West Wing of Independence Hall. Opened in November last year, the building and its immersive exhibition and multisensory theater transport you to Boston on the eve of Paul Revere's ride, whisking you to places and moments leading up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

3 CENTRAL CURIOSITIES

Sometimes things, such as those that follow, are so intriguing or unusual that they get you wondering, "Wait, how did that come to be?"

Berman Museum, Anniston: What do Napoleon's grooming kit, Hitler's personal tea service, antique spy equipment and bronze sculptures by Frederic Remington have in common? Nothing, except that collecting them was important to Farley and Germaine Berman. Those unique items and others make up their collection on display at this interesting museum.

White Cliffs, Epes: Dover, England, has its white cliffs, and so does Alabama. Exposed by the flow of the Tombigbee River, the White Cliffs of Epes are layers of the Selma Chalk Foundation. View them either from the river or the U.S. Highway 11 bridge that crosses the river.

Tinglewood, Montevallo: When you walk through Orr Park and encounter gnomes or dragons peering from the trees, you might wonder if you somehow got transported to a fantasy world. The whimsical carvings by Tim Tingle surprise and delight people of all ages.

Sol Y Luna Tapas and Tequila

With so much to enjoy in Birmingham, it's hard to decide what to do first. We're known as the "Dinner Table of the South," so may we suggest that, first, we eat. Sit down at a trendy bistro or splurge at a chic café. Relish some real Southern barbecue or go for glorious global fare. If you have an appetite for travel, we've saved a seat for you.

48 Hours in Birmingham

In July, international visitors will flood Birmingham for the 2022 Games, but the city's world-class food and activities make it worth a visit year-round. BY RICK HARMON

Friday

AFTERNOON Quickly get into the swing of your relaxing vacation with a round of 18 at gorgeous Ross Bridge, one of the locations on the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail. The course is carved into the rolling terrain of Shannon Valley around the 259-room Renaissance Ross Bridge Golf Resort & Spa. Despite being one of the longest courses in the world (it is 8,191 yards and takes about 4.75 hours to play), Ross Bridge offers multiple tees for golfers of all levels and is often named among the great golf courses in the country.

EVENING For dinner, check out one of the nation's top restaurants, Frank Stitt's Highlands Bar & Grill. The James Beard Foundation has given Stitt the best chef in the Southeast award, Highlands the outstanding restaurant in America award and Highlands chef Dolester Miles the outstanding pastry chef award. Because the restaurant is so popular, it is wise to make reservations in advance at highlandsbarandgrill.com.

AFRAID OF HEIGHTS?

Don't be. The view from Vulcan, the world's largest cast-iron statue, is worth confronting your fears. Climb to the top and walk 360 degrees around the pedestal to see Birmingham and the expanse of Red Mountain Park far below. The Roman god of fire and forge represents the city's industrial roots.

Saturday

MORNING Enjoy a downtown morning ride from Railroad Park, a 19-acre green space that's known as Birmingham's Living Room due to its reputation as a gathering spot for recreation, cultural events and simply lounging around, to an incredible farmers market, The Market at Pepper Place, via Veo electric scooter or pedal bike or Bolt's Gotcha bike. The farmers market typically operates from mid-January through mid-December.

NOON Eat lunch at Yo Mama's, featured last year on Netflix's "Fresh, Fried & Crispy." The travel and food show follows host Daym Drops as he seeks out America's "best, freshest takes on fried food." Yo Mama's earns acclaim for many of its dishes, but most notably its fried chicken. Splendidly full, travel the mile to the Negro Southern League Museum, where you can check out baseball hall-of-famer Satchel Paige's pitches, thanks to hologram projection. This small but well-done museum presents the history of African-American baseball.

AFTERNOON Stop by Good People Brewing for its Snake Handler Double IPA. Then rev up your afternoon at Barber Motorsports Park, home of high-performance racing and the Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum. It's the largest motorcycle museum in the world, with more than 1,600 motorcycles from 1904 to the present. More than 900 are on display at any time. It also has the world's largest collection of Lotus race cars. If cars are not your thing, then enjoy the afternoon on the mega, 1,000-foot-long zip-line ride or hiking trails at Red Mountain Park.

EVENING Birmingham is a foodie paradise, so much so that the city bills itself as the "Dinner Table of the South." The tagline is well earned, thanks to the plethora of award-winning or notable restaurants: Chez Fonfon, Bottega, Helen, Automatic Seafood and Oysters, or Hot and Hot Fish Club. Later, check out live performances at one of three of the South's most gorgeous music venues, the Lyric, Alabama and Carver theaters. The latter also holds the completely renovated Alabama Jazz Hall of Fame, reopening this year.

Sunday

MORNING Put on your Sunday best and attend a 10:45 a.m. worship service at the historic 16th Street Baptist Church, a civil rights landmark and part of the Birmingham Civil Rights National Monument and Birmingham Civil Rights District.

NOON Take time to explore the sites that make up the Birmingham Civil Rights National Monument (turn to page 28 for more details), but don't forget to eat. Michael's Restaurant, located about a mile from the civil rights district near Regions Field, prepares a tasty brunch with dishes that span from chicken and waffles to beef tips and rice.

AFTERNOON It's dealer's choice this afternoon. For a dive into art, visit the Birmingham Museum of Art, one of the finest regional museums in the United States. The diverse collection is culled from the museum's extensive holdings of Asian, European, American, African, Pre-Columbian and Native American art. Notably, it holds the largest assembly of Wedgwood outside of England. If you are more focused on the future, stop into the McWane Science Center with its state-of-the-art science center, aquarium and 280-seat IMAX Dome Theater. Or, get an overview of the whole area from Vulcan, the world's largest cast-iron statue, which overlooks downtown Birmingham from its pedestal on Red Mountain.

Visit HOOVER

"Best City to Live in Alabama"♥

Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail at Ross Bridge

The City of Hoover is a hidden gem nestled in the heart of Alabama. We are a modern city with a rich history focused on improving the lives and lifestyles of our growing and highly diverse population. What makes us great are the activities, amenities and resources we offer our citizens and visitors alike. From lush green hills, spacious parks, beautiful golf courses and the Cahaba River to great tasting food, luxury hotels, quality entertainment and some of the nicest people in the world, Hoover is a great place to live and visit.

Aldridge Gardens

City-wide Color Run

Internationally Inspired Cuisine

We even have a world famous comedy club, The Star Dome. So no matter what you like, you will find something here to love.

With easy access to all major thoroughfares, Hoover is accessible from Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Montgomery and surrounding states. If you add in our space and capacity, we are a perfect destination to handle large conventions, conferences and sporting events.

48 Hours in Tuscaloosa

Passionate cheers of "Roll Tide" emanate from the campus of the University of Alabama and echo along the banks of the Black Warrior River in this vibrant home of murals, museums and Mercedes-Benz.

BY LAURA MCGILL

Friday

AFTERNOON Begin your T-town visit about 20 miles east of downtown at the Mercedes-Benz U.S. International Visitor Center/Museum. Whether you're a seasoned car enthusiast or just curious about the iconic brand, the museum will leave you with a true appreciation for the quality work produced here in central Alabama. Outside of a trip to Germany, this is your only opportunity for a Mercedes-Benz experience like this. Please note that plant tours are available Mondays and Wednesdays and require advance reservations.

Back in Tuscaloosa proper, pause for a caffeinated treat at Monarch Espresso Bar, where the menu includes coffees and teas with influences from around the globe. Turbo Coffee also touts international brews, as well as an extensive smoothie menu, ranging from a fruity Blue Lagoon to a protein-packed Pink Panther.

After checking into a downtown Tuscaloosa hotel, devote your remaining afternoon hours to the Tuscaloosa Civil Rights History Trail. Eighteen stops are explained in depth on the companion website, www.civilrightstuscaloosa.org. Several are within easy walking distance along the downtown portion of University Boulevard; others require a short drive.

EVENING Pick your pace for a night downtown. Go light with a glass of wine paired with a charcuterie board or baked feta dish from The Wine Market. Or, dine at a uniquely Tuscaloosa restaurant when you choose Central Mesa. Here everything seems to find its way into a taco, from Nashville hot chicken to Gulf shrimp. Keep the night going into the wee hours with a stop at Session, where you'll feel just as at home with an old-school gimlet as with a new-school Monkey Business from the specialty cocktail menu.

Saturday

MORNING With two Tuscaloosa locations, fuel up for the day at Heritage House Coffee & Tea. Go healthy or hearty with its extended menu, ranging from a stack of blueberry pancakes to avocado open face.

Delve into campus life with a visit to the University of Alabama. You'll find plenty of Instagram-worthy moments at the Quad, which is anchored to the south

ROOFTOP RELAXATION

Enjoy a handcrafted cocktail at The Lookout atop Hotel Indigo as you watch the sun go down. The drinks are smooth, and the views from above are conversation starters since the hotel stands near the banks of the Black Warrior River. Try the onion dip; it's the chef's family recipe.

EVENING Check the calendar for concerts, performances and exhibits to attend at local hotspots including the Tuscaloosa Amphitheater, Dinah Washington Cultural Arts Center and Bama Theatre.

For a pre-performance appetizer or apéritif, head to Druid City Social. The eclectic menu runs the culinary gamut from a caprese salad to the mammoth L&N burger, a tribute to the building's origins as a train station.

Sunday

MORNING Before you bid farewell to Tuscaloosa, take a stroll along the Tuscaloosa Riverwalk as it hugs the scenic Black Warrior River. Then, grab a final social snapshot in front of the colorful "Tuscaloosa" mural. Find it at 1229 University Boulevard.

Search Tuscaloosa at Alabama.Travel to learn more.

Clockwise from opposite bottom: Tuska at the University of Alabama, The Lookout atop Hotel Indigo, Tuscaloosa Riverwalk, Tuscaloosa mural, cinnamon roll at Heritage House Coffee & Tea, First African Baptist Church on the Tuscaloosa Civil Rights History Trail, Central Mesa by Denny Chimes, a 25-bell carillon nestled in a 115-foot-tall tower. Whether your first words were "Roll Tide" or not, you can respect a legendary football coach like Paul "Bear" Bryant. His namesake museum on campus celebrates his amazing 25-year career at the University of Alabama. Continue on to the President's Mansion, the Walk of Champions and Bryant-Denny Stadium, home to Tuska, a massive 19-foot-tall, 7-ton elephant statue.

NOON Might as well keep the Crimson Tide theme going strong over lunch. Grab a seat at the wildly popular Rama Jama's, just off the southwest corner of the stadium. Open since 1996, the joint feels like it has always been here as it celebrates the home team with every square inch of space. The menu is comfort food 101 with cheeseburgers, fries and milkshakes.

AFTERNOON Step back on campus and way back in time—like 500 million years back—at the Alabama Museum of Natural History, located in Smith Hall. Or, choose the short drive to Moundville Archaeological Park, where prehistoric Indian mounds tell of the area's past.

NORTH

Unwind where the mountains kiss the sky, cave openings lead to early civilizations and worlds below, and rocket simulators help you reach the moon.

Nighttime dazzles in this region, whether while listening to a singer in a club in the Shoals, observing the heavens from a planetarium in Huntsville or relaxing at a campsite beside a lakeshore. More acres are preserved for public use here than anywhere else in the state, meaning you've got plenty of room to roam. The foothills of the Appalachian Mountains rise, the Natchez Trace Parkway winds and the legacy of indigenous tribes forced westward endures. The spirit of the region has inspired countless musicians, both those born and raised nearby, like W.C. Handy and Jason Isbell, and artists Aretha Franklin and the Rolling Stones, who came to record in and around the Shoals. Museums honor American heroes Jesse Owens and Helen Keller, while the U.S. Space & Rocket Center reminds the world about Alabama's pivotal role in space exploration.

3 KID-FRIENDLY STOPS

The recently opened, state-of-the art Cook Museum of Natural Science (this page) in Decatur encourages kids to see what life is like from a beaver's perspective, to touch a meteorite, and to crawl through a recreated cave looking for life-like bats and bears.

Huntsville's Alabama Constitution Hall Park allows visitors to step back into 1819 when Alabama became a state. Demonstrations and stories bring the period alive during 90-minute tours.

A visit to Ivy Green, Helen Keller's birthplace, in Tuscumbia lends understanding to what her young life was like as a deafblind person.

GRAB A MEAL AT RATTLESNAKE SALOON IN TUSCUMBIA. THIS RESTAURANT, WHICH EATTHIS.COM NAMED LAST YEAR AS THE STATE'S BEST THEMED RESTAURANT, IS SITUATED INSIDE A CARVED-OUT, 15,000-SQUARE-FOOT ROCK LEDGE. FROM THE MENU—CHUCKWAGON NACHOS, THE BUCKAROO, THE RUSTLER BURGER—TO THE DÉCOR, THE SALOON CARRIES A WESTERN FEEL.

CAST NO DOUBT. Throw a line in Pickwick Lake near Florence and there is little doubt you'll net a trophy bass. Already on the Alabama Bass Trail, the lake recently garnered attention from Bassmaster Magazine, which ranked it No. 10 among the top bass fishing lakes in the nation. The ranking was based on anglers' ability to catch what Bassmaster calls "a trophy trifecta," meaning significantly sized smallmouths, largemouths and spotted bass.

FIND YOUR GROOVE

Alabama Music Hall of Fame, Tuscumbia: Discover the ties Alabama has to more than 1,200 musicians at this comprehensive museum. From Hank Williams Sr. to Nat "King" Cole to the Commodores, the breadth and variety of music and artists represented here is wide.

FAME, Muscle Shoals: In this still-operating sound studio, producer Rick Hall created what became known as the Muscle Shoals Sound, heard on Aretha Franklin's "I Never Loved a Man" and Wilson Pickett's "Mustang Sally." Tours go beyond the front door and into famous Studio A and Studio B, where hits were made.

Alabama Fan Club & Museum, Fort Payne: Fort Payne natives and cousins Randy Owen, Teddy Gentry and Jeff Cook formed one of country music's most celebrated bands and named it after their home state. Visit Alabama's museum to see personal items, notable awards, photographs and more from the band's 50-plus years of performing.

Muscle Shoals Sound Studio, Sheffield: Recently restored to the look of its late 1960s to early 1970s heyday, this still-active recording studio generated chart-topping singles. Sit on the couch where Rod Stewart, Willie Nelson and Cher have sat. During tours, see the piano where Paul Simon wrote "Kodachrome" and the bathroom where Keith Richards reportedly finished writing "Wild Horses."

A Miniature World

Marvel at the 125 miniature replicas of the world's famous religious shrines that Benedictine monk Brother Joseph Zoettl at St. Bernard Abbey's Ave Maria Grotto crafted in Cullman. Most of the models are made from found objects, rendering his art even more miraculous.

IT'S A DATE!

The northern area of Alabama is the perfect place to get in a hot-air balloon and float through the sky, watch people race through waters at record speeds, explore the outdoors, or attend big events in the state's music capital.

APRIL 29–MAY 1

Panoply Arts Festival

One of the premier arts weekends in the Southeast, featuring performances by local and regional musicians and the works of more than 100 visual artists, celebrates its 40th year. Huntsville, 256-519-2787, artshuntsville.org/panoply-arts-festival

MAY 28–29

Alabama Jubilee Hot-Air Balloon Classic

A former Southeast Tourism Society's Top 20 Tourism Event in the Southeast, the event has drawn dozens of pilots from 20 states since 1978 who race against each other, share their love of ballooning with visitors and light up the night sky with a Balloon Glow. Decatur, 800-232-5449, alabamajubilee.net

JUNE 3-30
JULY 8, 9, 15 AND 16

"The Miracle Worker"

See one of the great stories of love, determination and courage where the story actually took place. Sixty years after "The Miracle Worker" won Oscars for best actress and best supporting actress, the Tony-winning play is being performed at Helen Keller's home at Ivy Green. Tuscumbia, 256-383-4066, themiracleworker.info

Guntersville Lake HydroFest

More than 20,000 visitors are expected to come this year to see some of the fastest boats in the world race and to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the world's fastest speed record Roy Duby set in 1962 on Lake Guntersville. Guntersville, 256-582-7015, guntersvillelakehydrofest.com

OCT. 1–2

ShoalsFest

Jason Isbell and Amanda Shires, both Grammy winners, created this festival for Isbell's hometown and have been bringing incredibly talented musical friends to perform with them. It's a big enough hit that in 2021 it expanded from one day to two days. Florence, shoalsfest.net

48 Hours in Huntsville

Alabama's Rocket City welcomes science nerds, nature lovers, art appreciators, craft beer enthusiasts, foodies and just about anybody else for an out-of-this-world weekend. BY LAURA MCGILL

BEER CRAWL

Every year the number of breweries in Huntsville seems to multiply. The city has responded by embracing craft beer culture and launching a craft beer trail. Choose a designated driver or car service, and then start sipping. Nine breweries, including Straight to Ale Brewing (pictured), three craft beer stores, and two bonus stops make up the trail. Get your Trail Card punched at each one and earn a bottle opener.

Friday

AFTERNOON Indulge your artsy side with a stop at Lowe Mill Arts & Entertainment. Formerly a thriving textile mill, the complex today is the largest privately owned arts facility in the South and home to more than 150 studios. Pop into the studios to see the artists at work or to browse their finished pieces. In between stops, pause for tea at Piper & Leaf or a sweet bite at Pizzelle's Confections. Or, spend your afternoon discovering the 3,200+ objects on permanent display at the Huntsville Museum of Art. Walk out the museum's doors and over to Big Spring International Park for a relaxing walk before heading to your hotel.

EVENING For downtown lodging, consider the newly opened 106 Jefferson, which sports mid-century charm. Unpack, and then get ready for an evening of tunes and tastes. One popular downtown dinner spot, 1892 East Restaurant & Tavern, presents seasonal American fare influenced by what is growing locally. New to the scene, BeeZr Gastropub + Social Exchange, enables you to sip small-batch beers crafted by Chandler's Ford Brewing and nosh on tapas-sized dishes prepared by Champagne Taco Kitchen. Don't miss live entertainment. Check the calendar for who's on stage at the Von Braun Center, at the new Orion Amphitheater, or at one of the city's entertainment complexes: Stovehouse or Campus No. 805. Find more details about the eagerly anticipated amphitheater on page 44.

Saturday

MORNING You've got a busy day ahead, so don't skip breakfast. Order one of the hearty omelets or the banana pancakes at City Café Diner. Don't worry, you'll work it off!

Spend the rest of the morning in awe at the U.S. Space & Rocket Center—everywhere you look, it seems, you are surrounded by rockets and space memorabilia from one of the largest such collections on this planet. Visit rocketcenter.com to find out about various virtual reality experiences, including snorkeling and landing on the moon, available here. Be aware that some require a wardrobe change. Advance tickets are encouraged.

AFTERNOON During minor league baseball season, the Rocket City Trash Pandas might be in town. They play home games at Toyota Field in Madison, located about 10 miles west of Huntsville. If they're not in town, take advantage of one of the many trails the community has developed. For example, you could pace yourself and drink responsibly on the Downtown Huntsville Craft Beer Trail, a collection of nine brewery stops, three store stops and two bonus stops. Or, you could toast your way along the recently launched Downtown Huntsville Craft Cocktail Trail. It consists of seven stops, each of which pours a specific cocktail made for the trail, or you can order a favorite drink. Booze not your thing?

Space Camp and the U.S. Space & Rocket Center have developed programs, spaces and exhibits with accessibility in mind. Specially organized space camps, for example, regularly welcome visually impaired students.

Search Huntsville at Alabama.Travel to learn more.

No problem. The Alabama Antique Trail leads to antiques that reflect the city's heritage, the Foundations of Faith Trail reveals Madison County's spiritual side at 16 places of worship and the Downtown Huntsville Secret Art Walk uncovers 19 pieces of public art within the Quigley Arts & Entertainment District.

EVENING Tonight, treat your taste buds to some of Huntsville's global influences. For Chinese, head to Ding How II, where the menu includes family meals. These options, available for two to five people, include predetermined selections, such as moo goo gai pan and sweet and sour pork, but also come with daily soup, spring rolls and fried rice. Another long-time dining landmark since 1972, Ol' Heidelberg Restaurant dishes up delicious German schnitzel and sausage. Or, Neon Lilly, located in Bridge Street Town Centre, presents eclectic Eastern European cuisine. Think authentically prepared Polish pierogies, Armenian stuffed grape leaves, and Ukrainian kielbasa.

Sunday

MORNING Perk up for your last day in town with your pick of stops on the Downtown Huntsville Craft Coffee Trail. Currently, 10 coffee shops participate, sharing their best roasts, lattes, drips and more. Fully energized, you'll be ready to conquer a hiking trail at Monte Sano State Park. Another option could be some of the 70+ miles of trails provided by the Land Trust of North Alabama and held in six nature preserves. Only two miles from downtown, trails in Monte Sano Nature Preserve also connect with networks in the state park and Burritt on the Mountain.

AFTERNOON Whether you hiked over or drove to Burritt on the Mountain, this "jewel" sits atop Round Top Mountain. Take a guided or self-guided tour of the historic 19th-century Burritt Mansion and learn about farming in the 1800s from interpreters dressed in period clothing and through hands-on demonstrations. Kids love the animals at The McCurdy Barnyard.

A BLAZING TRAIL

BY AMITY MOORE JOYCE

You don't need to travel to America's northeast for New England-like foliage.

ALABAMA HAS ALL THE GOLDS, ORANGES AND CRIMSONS YOU NEED FOR A PERFECT AUTUMN ROAD TRIP. Follow the Circle of Colors Trail, a loop that travels primarily through North Alabama. Begin in Ashville on U.S. 231N and travel to Oneonta to see covered bridges the way they were meant to be seen—against a rainbow of fall hues. Pick up U.S. 278W to Cullman and Double Springs and on to Bankhead National Forest, where you can see the forest AND the leaves. Don't miss the Natural Bridge of Alabama, a selfie-worthy stop. At Hamilton, take U.S. 43N to reach Dismals Canyon and Rock Bridge Canyon in Hodges. The highway intersects with U.S. 72 and crosses over the Tennessee River into Florence. Stop at Joe Wheeler State Park, where a riverboat tour shows off the state park and Wheeler Lake in their fall finery. Continue east on U.S. 72 to Huntsville and then onward to Scottsboro, not far from Lake Guntersville. This lake is known for bird-watching, and the fall migration does not disappoint. For more twists, turns and stops on this fall color tour, visit Alabama.Travel, where you can find a time line of the predicted peaks for fall color up and down the state.

Walk on sugar-like, white-sand beaches; paddle gorgeous lakes and rivers; take shady walks through towering forests; witness thundering waterfalls; or explore some of the nation's most spectacular caves. Want something different? Experience some of the country's best bouldering; hike through the southern Appalachian Mountains on more than 330 miles of the Pinhoti Trail, which connects with the Appalachian Trail; or cast your line in a state known for some of the world's best bass fishing. Hunt for white-tailed deer, wild turkey, bobwhite quail and other game. Or, if simple discovery and quiet observation are your preference, bring binoculars to appreciate this birding paradise while also getting acquainted with the incredible wealth of exotic plants and animals that have earned Alabama the title of America's Amazon. # BRINGING THE OUTDOORS INTO FOCUS

STATE PARKS

Imagine the most beautiful photographed landscape you have ever seen. Now, multiply that by the thousands and place yourself and your family into these masterpieces. Welcome to Alabama.

WHO BETTER TO SHOW the sublimity of Alabama's outdoors than the people exploring it? The Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, in conjunction with the Alabama Tourism Department, holds an annual Outdoor Alabama Photo Contest in which amateur photographers can enter photos taken on their in-state outings. Here are some of the winning images.

Cheaha State Park

First Place

Photographer: Keith Bozeman
Location: Delta
Experience: Transport yourself to what feels like a rock island in the sky when you take the Mountain Laurel Trail to Rock Garden Outlook. From here, you can view Alabama's vast Talladega National Forest from Cheaha Mountain, the state's highest point, inside Cheaha State Park, Alabama's oldest state park.

SWEET HOME ALABAMA

USS Alabama Battleship and Skyline

First Place

Photographer: Gwen Ainsworth
Location: Mobile
Experience: Bright lights, big...battleship. Catch the illuminated glory of WWII battleship the USS Alabama, one of the country's top military attractions, against the backdrop of Mobile.

Visit outdooralabama.com/outdoor-alabama-photo-contest to see more winning photographs and to submit your images for future contests.

Whatever you want to explore—mountains, beaches, forests, lakes, rivers or caves—this landscape holds such a diversity of flora and fauna that Alabama contains what has been called America's Amazon.

SCENIC

Canyon Cascade

First Place

Photographer: Keith Bozeman
Location: Bankhead National Forest
Experience: Cascading sunlight highlights the primordial beauty of a canyon bottom in Bankhead National Forest, one of four national forests in Alabama and home to the Sipsey Fork.

NATURE-BASED RECREATION

Full Moon Fishing at Lake Guntersville

First Place

Photographer: Christopher Baker
Location: Guntersville
Experience: When the sun goes down, pull up large-mouth bass in the cool resplendence of moonlit Lake Guntersville, Alabama's largest lake.

The Basics

Skim how to use this guide, the ways you can travel to Alabama, the distance between here and other major Southern cities, and a few things to keep in mind once you arrive.

DRIVING LAWS
All people (driver and passengers) in a vehicle must wear seat belts. Motorcyclists must wear helmets. Child car seats are required up to 6 years old. Cell phone use is allowed but not for texts or emails. TEXTING WHILE DRIVING IS ILLEGAL.

Amtrak has train stations in Anniston, Birmingham and Tuscaloosa. amtrak.com

Greyhound serves more than 35 cities and towns throughout Alabama, from Abbeville to York. greyhound.com
Megabus currently connects with Mobile, Montgomery and Birmingham. megabus.com

AIRPORTS
Birmingham-Shuttlesworth International Airport (BHM) offers more than 100 daily flights to 15 cities with American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Southwest Airlines and United Airlines.

Huntsville International Airport (HSV) offers daily flights on American Airlines, Breeze Airways, Delta Air Lines, Frontier Airlines, Silver Airways and United Airlines.

Montgomery Regional Airport (MGM) offers daily flights via American Airlines and Delta Air Lines.

Mobile Regional Airport (MOB) offers daily flights aboard American Airlines, Delta Air Lines and United Airlines.

Essentials

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
More and more breweries and distilleries are popping up in Alabama, but there are still some "dry counties" that don't sell alcohol at all (although many of these have "wet" cities within them). The legal drinking age is 21.

TIME
The state of Alabama is in the Central Standard Zone; however, Phenix City, Lanett, Smiths Station and Valley unofficially observe the Eastern Time Zone due to their close proximity to Georgia.

ALABAMA ACCESSIBILITY
Disabled accessibility is noted in most lodging listings by the icon: ♿. For information about inclusive access at attractions, search "accessibility" in the search bar at Alabama.Travel. Travelers with physical challenges may call Travelers Aid to inquire about special travel services:

- Birmingham: 205-322-5426
- Montgomery: 334-270-4100

Plan your trip by scanning this guide to learn about attractions, golf courses, outfitters and lodging.*

Each city in the listings has a location code that can be found on the maps on pages 61, 85, 107 and 133.

The map on page 169 is shaded to define the state's four regions: North, Central, South and Gulf Coast.

Use 10-digit calling within 205, 251 and 659 area codes. Such dialing in codes 256, 334 and 938 is not necessary.

 Listings information is provided by the vendor; please call individual properties to verify. No claims are made as to the quality of goods or services.*
